Pandemic-induced restrictions have brought retail businesses to their knees, according to the Retailers Association of India (RAI)

NORTH, WEST INDIA REGIONS SUFFER THE MOST

The impact on sales was the steepest in western and northern parts of the country, which witnessed a whopping 83% dip in May 2021 compared to May 2019. The eastern region, according to the retailers' body, witnessed a 75% fall, while South India suffered a 73% drop in sales. The government should step in to ameliorate the financial woes of the sector, RAI said

BEAUTY PRODUCTS AMONG WORST HIT

- The retailers' body said the sector is struggling to pay salaries, rentals, electricity charges and various taxes
- Beauty, personal care products saw the steepest decline at 87%
- Food and grocery business, however, was relatively better off with a decline of just 34% in May 2021 compared to May 2019

Beware the equity market bubble, warn experts, raise the red flag

DIPAK MONDAL & ARSHAD KHAN @New Delhi

THE Indian equity markets seem to be going through a purple patch. Even as the Covid-19 pandemic wrecked the backbone of the economy in 2020 and 2021, the markets don't seem to mind a bit.

In the past year, the BSE 30 Index Sensex has sprung from 33,228 to 52,773 points, gaining 59% on the way. Since 23 March 2020, when the lockdown was first announced, the equity markets have returned almost 100%. The Sensex during the period rose from 27,600 points to 52,773, gaining 91%.

The 'bull run' continues even if regulators and a few market experts have already raised the red flag. The RBI in its recent annual report warned of a possible equity market bubble, subtly cautioning investors against irrational exuberance.

MARKET CAP TO GDP RATIO (%)

AVERAGE SENSEX P/E RATIO

RBI's concerns are not without reasons. Valuations have gone through the roof, and yet the markets have climbed new peaks driven by easy liquidity provided across the globe by governments to support growth to pandemic-hit economies.

India's current market cap to GDP ratio is 112%, against the historic average market cap to GDP ratio 76%. The Sensex is currently trading at a price-to-earnings ratio of 32 against the five-year average of 21.

However, experts are not impressed by such high valuations. According to Geojit Financial Services' chief investment strategist V K Vijayakumar, robust foreign institutional buying, select high-quality buying by domestic institutions and enthusiastic retail activity are positives for the market, but the froth building up in the broader market is a big worry. CONTINUED ON: P13

Covid cases dip for fourth day in a row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

DAILY Covid case additions have dropped consecutively for four days with 5,041 cases being reported on Tuesday, even as Bengaluru recorded below-1,000 cases at 985.

Tuesday's cases are the lowest since April 4 when 4,553 cases were recorded. The state saw 9,785 cases on June 12, 7,810 on June 13, and 6,835 on Monday.

The state's tally now stands at 27,77,010, a growth of 0.18 per cent over Monday's tally of 27,71,969. The growth rate of Covid tally, too, has seen a drop over the past four days — 0.35 per cent on June 12; 0.28 per cent on June 13; and 0.24 per cent on June 14.

It took 14 days for Covid tally to jump from 10 lakh to 11 lakh (April 1-15); six days from 11 lakh to 12 lakh (April 15-21); three days for each lakh added between 12 lakh and 15 lakh; and four days for each lakh added between 15 lakh and 28 lakh.

However, it took a week for the tally to reach 27 lakh from 26 lakh (May 31-June 7) as the daily additions declined and the number of discharged patients increased.

Bengaluru Urban district saw a drop in cases after several weeks, recording 985 and, for the first time in the second wave recording less than 1,000 daily addition in cases.

The mortality rate, however, remained steady at 1.19 per cent in Karnataka with 115 deaths taking the State's toll to 33,148 fatalities.

Delhi HC upholds right to protest, activists get bail

Rules invoking stringent UAPA against them in connection with the Delhi riots was illegal

KANU SARDA @New Delhi

FAULTING the state for blurring the line between the right to protest and a terrorist activity in order to suppress dissent, the Delhi High Court on Tuesday granted bail to a couple of activists and a student, who were arrested under the stringent Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) in connection with the northeast Delhi riots in February last year.

A bench of justices Siddhartha Mridul and Anup J Bhambhani granted bail to Pinjra Tod activists Devangana Kalita and Natasha Narwal and Jamia Milia Islamia student Asif Iqbal Tanha in three separate verdicts. Over a year after they were arrested, all three can expect to be free on bail.

While Kalita was booked in four cases, Narwal had three FIRs registered against her. They already have bail in all the other cases. The UAPA case against them pertains to the larger conspiracy angle behind the riots, being probed by the Delhi Police's Special Cell.

"We are constrained to say, that it appears, that in its anxiety to suppress dissent and in the morbid fear that matters may get out of hand, the State has blurred the line between the constitutionally guaranteed 'right to protest' and 'terrorist activity'," the order said. Reacting to the high court order, Delhi Police said it will file a Special Leave Petition against it in the Supreme Court.

SIGNIFICANT OBSERVATIONS

PEACEFUL PROTEST WITHOUT USE OF ARMS

Stressing that the right to peacefully protest without arms is a fundamental right, the court said, "Considering, however, that the right to protest is a fundamental right that flows from the Constitutionally guaranteed right to assemble peaceably and without arms enshrined in Article 19(1)(b) of our Constitution, surely the right to protest is not outlawed and cannot be termed as a 'terrorist act' within the meaning of the UAPA, unless of course the ingredients of the offences under sections 15, 17 and/or 18 of the UAPA are clearly discernible from the factual allegations contained in chargesheet and the material filed therewith."

AMBIT OF THE 'TERRORIST ACT' PHRASE

The court said the phrase 'terrorist act' under UAPA could not be permitted to be applied in a cavalier manner to criminal acts or omissions that fall squarely within the definition of conventional offences as defined under the Indian Penal Code. "Even if we assume for the sake of argument, without expressing any view thereon, that in the present case inflammatory speeches, chakka jams, instigation of women protesters and other actions, to which the appellant is alleged to have been party, crossed the line of peaceful protests permissible under our Constitutional guarantee, that, however, would yet not amount to commission of a 'terrorist act' or a 'conspiracy' or an 'act preparatory' to the commission of a terrorist act as understood under the UAPA," the bench said. P9

IN RUN-UP TO ARUN SINGH'S VISIT, SEERS BACK BSY; MLAs PREPARE LIST OF WOES

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN the run-up to BJP General Secretary in-charge Arun Singh's visit to Karnataka, starting from Wednesday, seers from the All-India Veerashaiva Lingayat Seer Forum issued a statement on Monday, backing BS Yediyurappa to complete his term as chief minister.

It was only last week that Bekkina Kal mutt seer Mallikarjun Murugharajendra Swami had batted for Yediyurappa.

The seers have come out in strong support of the chief minister as murmurs of leadership change are gaining momentum in the wake of Singh's visit. The rousing support from 17 seers comes after BJP state vice-president and Yediyurappa's son BY Vijayendra's serial meetings with seers from the Lingayat community last week.

Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa at a meeting in Bengaluru on Tuesday

Vijayendra met the seers after returning from his Delhi trip where he met BJP National President JP Nadda. The chronology of events is leading up to the much-anticipated Arun Singh's visit to take stock of the situation in Karnataka. But legislators and office-bearers of the BJP state unit are not confident of Singh's visit throwing up any concrete action. "The central leadership has given oral instructions that no group meetings will be encouraged. That means party members can approach Singh individually and convey their concerns. The exercise will be a mere eyewash and nothing more," said a senior party legislator. The decision is to avoid making any representation seem like a show of strength, whether for or against Yediyurappa, party sources said.

Those convinced that Singh's visit to Karnataka is a futile exercise are, however, putting together a list of complaints to be submitted to him as well as the Central leadership of the party, albeit in the following week. P3

Woman gave supari to kill hubby: Cops

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Belagavi

IN a strange case, the police at Dandeli, near Belagavi, have arrested a woman for allegedly hatching a plot to kill her husband with the help of supari killers as he purportedly asked her to stop using her mobile phone continuously.

The couple, Ankush Rama Sutar and Tejaswini, were married for some years and living in Dandeli Rural limits. The police said that when Ankush kept warning her against her addiction to mobile phone, Tejaswini got upset and allegedly decided to get rid of him. The police said that she contacted her friend Vanita Chavan, a resident of Ganeshpur in Belagavi, and offered to pay Rs 30,000 to supari killers to get her husband eliminated.

They allegedly hired Ganesh Shantaram Patil and a minor boy, who arrived at Dandeli late on Friday night and joined Tejaswini at her house. The three tried to strangle Ankush to death, but he woke up and raised an alarm, alerting the neighbours, who rescued him, the FIR stated. All the four suspects were later caught.

No CET scores for BSc admission: Govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE State Government has dropped the idea of making the Common Entrance Test scores a criterion for admissions to BSc. It asked vice-chancellors of universities to consider starting a four-year undergraduate course under the National Education Policy (NEP) this academic year to accommodate a higher number of Pre University-II (PU-II) students who have been passed as their board exams were recently declared cancelled due to the Covid situation.

Deputy Chief Minister and Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan on Tuesday said the idea of considering CET for BSc admissions has been dropped. The earlier decision had been taken as the second PUC examinations were cancelled, he added.

He said that this year, the number of students seeking admission to undergraduate courses will significantly increase as the 2nd PUC examination is cancelled and all students have been declared "passed". "If universities start four-year undergraduate courses, that will help accommodate more students and it is also an opportunity for varsities to initiate this," he added, after a meeting with vice-chancellors on Tuesday.

Ex-corporators corner jabs, people cry foul

Youngsters allege that they have to wait for long to get inoculated, councillors bring in friends and family

MEERA BHARDWAJ
@ Bengaluru

WITH people now eager to take the Covid-19 vaccination, many can be seen waiting for their jab at government vaccination centres. However, youngsters complained of interference by ex-corporators in some city wards, and said doses are reserved for their party workers, friends and family. With each centre getting only 40-80 doses, youngsters are often left high and dry.

At present, 40.7 lakh people have been vaccinated in BBMP limits till June 14, but not even 10-12 per cent have completed their two-dose schedule. BBMP is receiving less than one lakh doses per day from the state government, and is unable to meet targets. And out of this, only 30,000-35,000 doses are received for the 18-44-year group. So, only 13.31 lakh (excluding healthcare and frontline workers) have received their first dose.

Seema, who went to a government school in Padarayanapura, found to her dismay that doses were given as per the ex-corporators' list. In many wards, t,he ex-corporator's writ still runs large. People in southern and south-west parts of the city expressed their concern and said, "We go and stand in the queue but find that these councillors manage to corner the vaccines for their own people. Why should we go and beg them for vaccination when it is our right?"

Pushpa (32), a domestic help and mother of two, is the sole earning member after her husband's death. "I desperately needed the vaccination as I wanted to protect my children. For the past 15 days, I had been visiting the government school near Uttarahalli circle and they assured me I would get it. But to my surprise, I found other young people were getting it easily as the local corporator was sending them. After 15 days, I managed to get my first dose."

However, in contrast to this, at private hospitals and camps organised by clubs and NGOs, it is youngsters who are making a beeline for the first dose, paying Rs 1,200-1,400 per dose. Many professionals and young people have managed to get their first dose at corporate hospitals. Sharat Bhat and wife Ramya got their first dose of Covaxin at BGS Hospital, in the first week of June.

Century Club, which organised a two-day-camp in their premises recently, provided vaccination to about 1,900 people. E G Jaideep, Secretary said, "This is our second camp and we held it with all pandemic norms in a tie-up with Apollo Hospital. Both vaccines were provided but Covaxin was given only as a second dose. Many youngsters turned up and received their first dose and we will be holding more camps in the coming days."

One ex-corporator in the Basavanagudi area who did not want to be named said, "We have been helping young people in our ward, especially the poor, to get their first dose. And our effort has been misinterpreted as favouring a few. The youth are coming forward for vaccination, which is a good sign to prevent a third wave."

On their part, BBMP health officials said that if there are any specific complaints, the matter would be looked into but people should come forward to complain about favouritism.

Pending smart city works get boost during lockdown

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

UNLIKE the first lockdown, the second one was utilised by the government and the city corporation to complete the ongoing Smart City road works. 21 roads have been completed and will be open for commuters in June and July.

According to information shared by Bengaluru Smart City Limited (BSCL), work on a total of 15.15 km of road has been completed during the second lockdown and work on 4.843 km is pending.

The list of roads which will be open for people to use from June-end include, Hayes Road, Wood Street, Tate Lane, Raja Ram Mohan Roy Road, Convent Road, Mcgrath Road, Castle Street, Lavelle Road, Brigade Road, Dickenson Road, Queens Road, Palace Road and Infantry Road.

According to officials, by the end of July, the remaining roads — Commercial Street, Cantonment Road, Millers Road Extension, Jumma Masjid Road and Kasturba road will be completed and open in July.

Rajendra Cholan, Managing Director, BSCL told The New Indian Express, in case of most of the roads, the final tarring, closing of ducts and clearing of pavements is pending. If weather permits then the works will be expedited. He said that the lockdown period was utilised to complete the works because traffic movement was minimal.

A total of 31 roads were taken up under the Smart City works in Bengaluru. Of this, 21 are done, he said, adding, the pending are- Kamaraj Road, Avenue Road, Infantry Road, Race Course Road, Ulsoor Road, Raj Bhavan Road and Planetarium Road.

If the weather permits, then the works will be expedited. Lockdown was used to complete the works because traffic movement was minimal

Rajendra Cholan

Cholan said in case of pending works, one side of the works and ducts are done, while pavers and underground cabling are pending.

In case of the rest like MG Road, Shivajinagar, Balekundri Circle, Richmond Road, Residency Road and Ali Askar Road work is still going on.

"The work has been going on with whatever labour strength was available. Unlike before, there were labourers, but there was a shortage. However, the projects are delayed, because many government offices also experienced a setback because of Covid, so clearance of files was slowed down," a BBMP official said.

State directed to start survey of Vrishabhavathi valley

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DIRECTING the state government to start survey of the whole stretch of Vrishabhavathi river to check encroachment and illegal constructions on the banks as recommended by the CSIR-National Environmental Engineering Research Institute (CSIR-NEERI), the Karnataka High Court on Tuesday directed the government to file an affidavit, setting a time limit for the completion of survey.

Passing the order in response to the Public Interest Litigation (PIL) filed by advocate and social activist Geetha Misra, a division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Suraj Govindaraj also directed the senior officer of the urban development department to file comprehensive affidavit on implementation of short-term and long-term measures suggested by the NEERI in its interim report on 'Restoration and rejuvenation of Vrishabhavathi River Valley'.

Noting that NEERI has emphasised that the survey should include the details of the illegal encroachments, buffer area to be maintained, storm water drain, agricultural run off, actual boundaries of all the lakes, etc, the court directed the additional chief secretary of urban development department to conduct meeting of all stake holders--BBMP, BWSSB, BDA, KSPCB and Minor Irrigation Department-- before initiating survey.

In its report submitted to the court in compliance with its order, the NEERI has stated that the current estimated sewage generation from the city is 1,440MLD, a third of which drains into the river. In order to rejuvenate the river, the two main issues like disposal of effluent, both domestic and industrial waste water, and solid waste are to be addressed on priority.

Short-term measures
- Check unauthorised developments around lakes
- Prevent entry of waste
- Fence along the stretch of the river to avoid solid waste dumping
- Toll-free number to receive complaints about dumping
- Mobile application to check illegal construction
- Ban on use of phosphates in manufacture of detergents
- Stop illegal discharge of effluent

Long-term measures
- Survey of whole stretch of river
- Fence along the periphery of the river
- Dredging and desilting
- De-weeding and construction of silt traps/screens at inlet points
- Diversion of sewage from existing storm water drains
- Stabilisation of earthen bunds and drainage channels

Justify policy of promoting regular PU students: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

"IF the State Government can hold exams for nearly a lakh repeaters enrolled for the Second PU examinations for the academic year 2021, why can't exams be held for regular students too?" questioned the Karnataka High Court, asking the government whether it can justify its policy of promoting all regular students of Second PU courses without holding exams, while holding exams for repeaters.

A division bench of Justice BV Nagarathna and Justice Hanchate Sanjeevkumar asked this during the hearing of a PIL, questioning the government's decision to hold examinations for repeaters/private candidates, while not extending the benefit of policy adopted by it to promote regular/freshers without holding exams, to the repeaters.

Hearing the petition filed by Gnana Mandira Education Trust, represented by Managing Trustee SV Singre Gowda, alleging that the government's policy is discriminatory in nature, the court issued notice to the latter. Further hearing will be held on June 17, 2021. The department will mull on the order and will arrive at a conclusion, said Primary and Secondary Education minister Suresh Kumar.

KCET exams to begin on Aug 28

Karnataka CET examinations for admission in undergraduate courses in engineering, B Pharm, technical, yoga and naturopathy, and the second year admission to B Pharm, Pharma-D, agricultural sciences and veterinary sciences will be held from August 28 to August 29. The application process commenced for candidates on June 15, and will close on July 10 at 5:30 PM.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

16th June: Everything in astrology points to the future, but also to the past. There's a general pattern today that intrigues me as current emotional trends point back to something that happened about ten years ago. I'm not going to say that we all feel this way but, if you do, you're in tune with the cosmic harmonies.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You will begin to realise that personal contacts are extremely important. In fact you may be able to patch up a professional battle by bringing in friends and colleagues on your side. Broaden your horizons, expand your visions and you'll see just how you can shift yourself out of an emotional rut.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The heavens have been smiling on you, and you have much to be thankful for. Today, you should turn your attention towards personal ambitions in the light of any recent ethical considerations, legal decisions or foreign developments. It's important for your self-esteem that you do the right and proper thing.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You can't do as much as you feel you ought to, but it may not really matter. The pressure on you might not be as great as you think, and you could have another week before you have to leap into action. That should give you time enough to think about what you really need.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
A part of your world has been turned upside down lately, and you must now make an effort to regain your balance. Consider now where the future lies financially, and put down markers for material security. Also, tell loved ones how you feel before they get the wrong idea.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Not only is this a lucrative time for business and financial matters, but you might also be discovering a new spirit in personal relationships. Someone may have convinced you that there is much more to life than you'd thought, and you are about to be pleasantly surprised.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Sometimes you're happier when you have plenty to do. Get back to work and put emotional disappointments behind you. There is no time to dwell on the past. Learn from your mistakes and you will ensure that when the future comes, all will work out for the best.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Certain people may be rather envious of you. Do you think perhaps they have good reason to be a little jealous? It definitely looks as if your romantic stars are shining brighter than their's. What you need, though, is the confidence to make the first move.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Nobody can pull the wool over your eyes or convince you that the truth is other than it seems. You have an eye for events at home and in the family that few people can match, so take command now. If you don't give the orders then someone else surely will.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Something that you now consider to be a minor disagreement could well become a major dispute, but perhaps not because of anything you have said or done. You may receive support from brothers or sisters, or from friends who you treat like part of the family.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Sometimes important plans, designed to simplify domestic arrangements, have to be abandoned, and there is nothing that can be done to salvage them. This is the worst-case scenario. If you have come through unscathed you are lucky. But, if your plans have come unstuck, then you need an alternative.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There is a great deal to be said for keeping your distance from people who are looking for trouble. If you handle the situation wisely, family members will rally round and you will have it all your own way at home. But will you be happy when you get what you want? Perhaps not!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Try not to press others to reveal more than they know. If you pry too far, you never know what you will find, and it is safer to give partners time to compose themselves. Even a major upheaval at home could be to your advantage, especially if close friends come round to your way of thinking.

BJP camps ready arsenal for Arun Singh visit today

Party general secretary in-charge to visit state and hear out grievances of legislators against the government, CM

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

BOTH camps of the ruling BJP are busy preparing for General Secretary in-charge Arun Singh, who is due to reach Bengaluru on Wednesday. MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal has set up base in the Legislators' Home and spent the entire day meeting his supporters. There is, though, a sense of resignation in this camp, and a realisation that it may not be so easy to oust Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa – though there are as many as six aspirants, there is no viable alternative to replace him.

Yediyurappa's camp, meanwhile, has instructed ministers to get ready to present Arun Singh with a list of achievements, focusing on development. Accordingly, senior and junior ministers and their teams spent the better part of Tuesday listing out achievements of their respective ministries in a document to be shared with the central leadership. Tourism minister C P Yogeshwara, who is unhappy with the state of affairs, has also prepared a draft.

He had requested for ₹500 crore for his ministry, but received only ₹220 crore, with about ₹40 crore going towards monthly salaries. The documents are being carefully prepared, listing out extensive developmental works that individual ministries have taken up over the past year, their budgetary allocations and progress reports. District Ministers too have listed out achievements in their districts.

Yediyurappa has called for a meeting of his cabinet colleagues at his official residence Kaveri on Sunday, after Singh leaves. He has also called for a cabinet meeting on Monday, though it is usually held on Thursdays. There is much speculation about why the CM has called for a cabinet meeting a couple of days before the usual meeting, with stakeholders wondering if he has any travel plans or other engagements.

'Hope pleas are addressed'

"WE have a lot of complaints with the government and the chief minister's way of functioning, but that is not to be discussed in public. Whatever the concerns, we will inform Arun Singh and hope they are addressed in time, failing which the next course of action will follow," said another MLA.

During his three-day visit starting from Wednesday, Singh is scheduled to meet Cabinet ministers and MLAs, and is expected to take part in the state BJP core committee meeting. Legislators are keen on a legislature party meeting and hope directives are issued to Yediyurappa.

NO CONFUSION IN PARTY, ASSERTS BSY

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CLEARLY agitated with questions over the purpose of in-charge General Secretary Arun Singh's visit to Karnataka, Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa on Tuesday said there was no confusion on any matter in the State BJP.

He went one step ahead and accused the media of asking "irrelevant questions" and creating confusion over leadership change in the State. Yediyurappa's statement comes on the eve of Arun Singh's three-day visit to Karnataka to address unrest in the State unit.

"Arun Singh is coming to the state and he will talk to all legislators and MPs. There is no confusion. Anybody can meet him and talk. He will gather all the information in detail... he will be here for a couple of days. I will also be with him and give all required cooperation," Yediyurappa said.

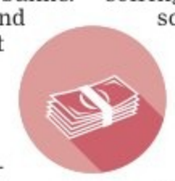
Arun Singh's visit comes in the backdrop of leadership change murmurs, and BJP leaders and ministers bickering publicly, criticising the CM and his family.

Siddaramaiah writes to CM over school fee standoff

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

OPPOSITION leader in the Karnataka legislative assembly and Congress Legislature Party chief Siddaramaiah on Tuesday wrote to Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa, urging the government to ease the tension between private school management and parents over term fees.

In his two-page letter, Siddaramaiah has urged the government to decide on subsidised term fees that parents can pay this academic year to bring the tussle over fee payment to an end. The former Chief Minister also insisted that the government should devise methods to lessen the burden of loan interests on private school managements, in consultation with banks. "Salaries of teaching and non-teaching staff that have been withheld by various schools should also be directed to be released immediately," Siddaramaiah said in his letter.



Pointing out that last year, the government had announced 30 per cent subsidy on school fees owing to the pandemic, Siddaramaiah said the initiative never came into practice and schools continued to charge full fees, including bus and sports fees.

"Many teachers have not been paid and are taking up jobs under MGNREGA or are selling vegetables. Private schools are forcing parents to pay up full fees this year too and are threatening to hold back students whose fees haven't been paid. Non-action in such circumstances shows the government has succumbed to lobbying," Siddaramaiah alleged. He insisted that the government announce subsidised fees and ensure that the announcement in implemented.

KSE: Congress supporting anti-national sentiments

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Karwar

MINISTER for Rural Development and Panchayat Raj K S Eshwarappa lashed out at Congress claiming that the party is supporting anti-national sentiments.

The minister, who had come to Gokarna on Tuesday evening, mocked the opposition party by taking a dig at former chief minister of Madhya Pradesh Digvijay Singh, who recently said the abolition of Article 370 was an unfortunate thing. Singh, during an interaction, had promised that Congress would revive the autonomous status for Jammu and Kashmir, if the party comes to power.

When a journalist pointed at a statement by Congress leader B Z Zameer Ahmed, where he said he will sacrifice his ticket and constituency for Siddaramaiah so that the latter can be the next Chief Minister, Eshwarappa taunted him saying, "Yes, Zameer is the one who issues B form to contest elections in Congress and he is the one who appoints the future Chief Minister."

Eshwarappa, when questioned about voices within the party demanding a change in leadership, said that there is no rebellion in the party. "But there is confusion. This confusion wouldn't have occurred if we had won a majority. This small confusion is because of those 17 new members who came to the party and helped form the government. Though some people visited New Delhi, leaders at the Centre are not convinced with them. Arun Singh, the party observer in-charge of the state, will have a closed-door meeting with the workers and the MLAs. The problem will be resolved," he said.

FUEL PRICE HIKE

'Govt taking ₹65 in tax per litre of petrol'

BENGALURU: State Congress president DK Shivakumar on Tuesday said the alleged wrongdoings in land purchase for the Ram Temple is an insult to the sentiment of the whole country, and those involved in it should be punished.

Shivakumar said people's donations should be returned. "They buy petrol for Rs 35 and sell it for Rs 100. They buy land for Ram Mandir for Rs 2 crore and sell it for Rs 18.5 crore, " he stated.

The government is taxing petrol at Rs 65/litre, though it actually costs Rs 35, he said, during a protest in Mandya on the last day of a five-day campaign against fuel price hike. ENS

Flu shots can reduce Covid infection in kids, say docs

Since the symptoms of both diseases are similar, influenza vaccination can protect the young, they say

IFFATH FATHIMA @ Bengaluru

WITH experts saying that children may be more susceptible in the third wave, some health professionals have suggested giving influenza shots to children to guard them from it and added that doctors can start Covid-19 treatment in infected children at an early stage.

Some of the common symptoms of Covid-19 are fever, fatigue, cough, sore throat, headache, cold, which are similar to the flu. In a recently published journal, titled 'The flu vaccination may have a protective effect on the course of Ccovid-19 in the paediatric population: When does SARS-Cov-2 meet influenza', it said that Covid-19 positive children, who had received the influenza vaccine in the flu season, had lesser odds of experiencing symptoms, respiratory problems or severe disease.

Dr Srikanta J T, Consultant, Paediatric Pulmonology and Sleep Medicine at Aster CMI Hospital, said, "Flu shots are vaccinations against seasonal flu caused by the influenza viruses. The mortality rate in influenza is 1 per cent while in Covid-19, it is said to be 0.1 per cent. Hence, it is important for children aged between 6 months and 6 years get the flu shots. It's even more important during this Covid season and an impending third wave, as Covid-19 and influenza infections in children are more or less similar with fever, Coryzal symptoms with some children developing severe infection requiring hospitalization and other supportive care. As both resemble each other, it is pertinent to protect children with vaccines that are tried and tested."

The price of the influenza flu vaccines ranges between Rs 1,500-1,690, which may not be affordable for all. Hence, doctors suggest that the government make it available free of cost in its health facilities.

"Children with Covid-19 have so far largely been asymptomatic or mildly symptomatic, whereas the seasonal flu is known to be more severe in its presentation, although self limited and without any later effects. There could be a situation where kids, acting as silent asymptomatic carriers of Covid-19, may spread it further after having a co-infection with the seasonal flu virus. These vaccines, which are routinely recommended for children, is all the more important during this pandemic. At the moment, the flu vaccines are available only in private clinics and hospitals and the need of the hour may be to make it available free of cost at government facilities as part of the National Immunization schedule. Presently, these vaccines are out of the reach of a majority of people. Hopefully, the government and the other experts on vaccines will think on the same lines," Dr Kiran Raghu, Consultant, Paediatrics, Prakriya hospitals.

Dr Bhaskar Shenoy, HoD and Consultant, Paediatrics, at Manipal Hospital on Old Airport Road pointed out that the symptoms of flu and Covid-19 are similar. "As Covid-19 continues to spread during this 2021-2022 flu season, it's important to ensure that children are protected against the flu. People who get the flu and Covid-19 at the same time might have a more serious illness. Vaccination is the most effective way to prevent influenza and potentially severe complications of the disease," he said.

CM hints at further easing of curbs as positivity rate dips

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa on Tuesday hinted at further relaxations in the lockdown restrictions in the state from next week as the Covid-19 cases and the case positivity rate are coming down.

After analysing the situation on Tuesday and Wednesday, they will decide on what needs to be done and what further relaxations can be given, the CM said. He was responding to questions from the media on relaxation of lockdown restriction with cases going down.

Last week, the government extended the lockdown till June 21 in 11 districts - Chikkamagalur, Shivamogga, Davanagere, Mysuru, Chamarajanagar, Hassan, Dakshina Kannada, Bengaluru Rural, Mandya, Belagavi and Kodagu - which have a high case positivity rate. Some relaxations are given in other districts including Bengaluru Urban. In a positive sign, the number of cases in the districts that continue to be under lockdown restrictions too are coming down over the last few days.

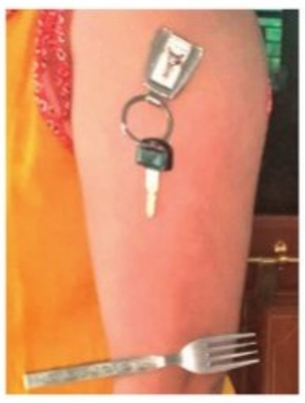
The CM had earlier stated that more relaxations will be introduced if people follow Covid-appropriate behaviour and the case positivity rates drop further. The decision on relaxations is likely to be taken after consulting the Technical Advisory Committee (TAC) members, who had suggested to the government to initiate the unlock process in a phased manner.

Health and Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar said they will continue to be extra vigilant even after the lockdown restrictions are relaxed in several districts from Monday and they will continue with the aggressive testing strategy. On Tuesday, 1.32 lakh tests were conducted in the state.

NOT-SO-MAGNETIC

Now, B'luru woman claims fork, keys stuck to her after vaccination

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru



AFTER similar claims from Gujarat, Maharashtra and closer home in Udupi, a woman residing in Bellandur area in Bengaluru has claimed magnetic effects after taking the Covid-19 vaccination. Jyothi Gowda took her first dose of Covaxin on April 26 and the second on May 29.

"After reading reports of this happening in North India, I checked with a fork in my kitchen and it stuck to my arm. I then tried with my house keys and they stuck as well. However, it did not work with my husband who also got inoculated on the same dates as me. I tried this 5-6 times and it worked all the time on my right hand. It did not work on my left hand or my legs," said Jyothi, who also experienced fever and body pain after taking the vaccine.

Reports have emerged from Gujarat where a man claimed that coins and utensils were sticking to his body. A man from Nasik in Maharashtra claimed to have developed magnetic powers after getting two doses of Covishield vaccine. A similar incident was reported from Surat, where two family members apparently became magnetic. In yet another case, a man from Udupi reportedly claimed that spoons and coins got stuck to his body after the vaccine shot. However, in another case, two people from Surat who did not take the vaccine also developed this magnetic effect.

The government's Press Information Bureau has called these claims baseless. In a video, the PIB stated that vaccines cannot cause a magnetic reaction in the human body. "The Covid-19 vaccines are completely safe and do not contain any metal-based ingredients. It is common to experience side-effects like mild headache, pain or swelling at the injection site and mild fever," the PIB said in a video on twitter.

Kodagu residents give Covaxin 2nd dose a miss, spark wastage concerns

PRAJNA G R @ Madikeri

OFFICIALS in Kodagu are caught in a bind as many residents do not appear to be keen on taking their second dose of Covaxin, which is administered 28 days after the first dose. They are worried that with people not keen on getting fully inoculated, the vaccine doses, which were especially reserved for the second round of the vaccination, may go waste.

"Of the residents who have been inoculated with Covaxin, 2,733 have not reported for their second dose. Many have not come back even after two months. All of them are aged above 45 and can directly walk in after 28 days of the first dose," said Dr Gopinath, RCH Officer.

Since the supply of Covaxin is limited, the district has made it available only for those eligible for the second dose. "If they don't turn up, the vaccine, which has a shelf life of six months, may expire," he pointed out.

The officials have been calling many residents to report for the second dose immediately, and quite a few are doing so gradually. There is still no clarity on the consequences of the delay in taking the second dose, but officials are insisting that people take it within the stipulated period of at least 60 days.

Dr C N Manjunath, member, State Covid Task Force, clarified that the ideal time to take the second dose of Covaxin is between six and ten weeks. "If the gap between the two doses is too long, and if the immune response is not good, there are chances that the person might get exposed to severe infection. If the gap is prolonged over 12 weeks, the vaccination will enable only partial protection," he pointed out.

An official, who is in charge of the vaccination drive in the district, said that many residents are out of station and a few of them had tested positive and hence, cannot take the second dose till three months.

Delta Plus: What's Known So Far

The highly infectious Delta variant (B.1617.2) of SARS-CO-V2, which was first traced in India, is feared to have mutated into the Delta-plus variant. The Union Health Ministry on Tuesday said that it is a "variant of interest", but has not classified it as a "variant of concern" so far. Karnataka has reported one case with the variant till now. Chetana Belagere brings you details

What is Delta plus?

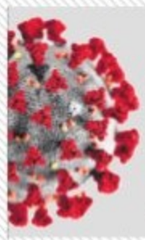
The new variant is a mutated version of the more aggressive B.1.617.2 Delta strain that drove the second wave of infections in India, including Karnataka. It is characterised by the K417N mutation in the spike protein of the SARS-CoV2 virus that causes Covid-19.

How was it found?

It has been seen in Europe since March and was came into public domain on June 13 after it was published by the Global Initiative on Sharing All Influenza Data (GISAID) . An earlier report by Public Health England said the Delta AY1 variant was found through routine scanning of variations in the Delta variant.

Is it found in Karnataka?

On June 7, six cases of the Delta plus variant were reported in India. Karnataka is one of the states where one sample was found.



Should we be concerned?

Dr V K Paul, Member-Health, Niti Aayog, said that it is still a variant of interest and has not yet been classified as a variant of concern. "But scientifically, the effect and change of Delta plus has to be watched through our INSACOG system. This has to be detected and we have to see its presence in the country," he was quoted as saying.

What should be done next?

More genome sequencing has to be done to see the spread of this variant. And blood plasma from a number of fully vaccinated individuals will have to be tested against this varian.

What is the concern about?

The spike protein is what helps the virus enter and infect human cells, and the K417N mutation has been associated with immune escape, or evasion, that leaves it less susceptible, or more immune, to the vaccine or any form of drug therapy. It is said that the Delta plus variant nullifies the use of a monoclonal antibody that was recently authorised in India.

CALL OF DUTY

Son on death bed, ambulance driver stayed course

KARTHIK K K @ Mysuru

Syed Mubarak

EVEN as his two-year-old son was fighting for his life in a hospital, Syed Mubarak, an ambulance driver, continued to heed the call of duty, trying to save the lives of others by shifting critically ill patients to hospitals. Sadly, while Mubarak was busy serving others, his own son died at a hospital in Mysuru on Tuesday.

When most people were reluctant to take up the job of an ambulance driver for fear of being infected, Mubarak came forward to work as one for the Mysuru City BJP unit, which had launched free ambulance services amid the raging second wave of Covid.

Over the last one-and-a-half months, he had transported more than 100 Covid and non-Covid patients, including many critically ill, across the city. But, over the last three-days, Mubarak went beyond the call of duty, continuing to serve the people in need by taking the ambulance to their doorstep and shifting them to hospitals, while his son lay on the hospital bed. Mubarak's son Syed Ibrahim had sustained burn injuries after accidentally falling into a hot water tub on June 11. But Mubarak did not take leave and continued to work.

"My son had burn injuries all over his body. The doctors treating him had assured us to do their best. I then thought that like me, many other patients would be in need of an ambulance in these hard times. So, I left everything in the hands of the doctors and God, and decided to work. I shifted a few patients in the city and even to Nanjangud taluk," Mubarak said. On Monday night, he transported a patient from Mysuru to Chamarajanagar district. He returned late at night, and on Tuesday morning, his son stopped responding to treatment. "I had many plans for my son, but he left us. I have still not informed my wife about this," said Mubarak, while waiting outside the Mysuru Medical College and Research Institute mortuary.

"Even when his own son was on the death bed, Mubarak continued to serve people. He has done good work for the last 1.5 months. He worked till late night even when his son's condition was deteriorating. We cannot appreciate him enough for his service," said Mysuru BJP unit president Srivatsa.

Man spends life savings for the needy

DIVYA CUTINHO @ Mangaluru

FOR some 70-odd families who were facing tough times due to the Covid lockdown, Krishna J from Ambalpady village in Udupi district came as a friend in need. Though the 42-year-old daily-wage worker had little for himself, he didn't flinch for a second when it came to spending his earnings and savings on the poor families in his neighbourhood.

Krishna, who works as a woodcutter and stays with his mother and sister just 3 km from Udupi, has come to the aid poor families in Kalmady, Kappettu, Katapady, Bachanabail and other areas by providing them with ration kits - rice, tea powder, sugar, coconuts, soaps, etc.

"When I go for work, many poor families seek help. Several weeks ago, due to heavy rains, many trees were uprooted which I had to clear. I earned some money with that and used it to buy essentials for the needy I come from a poor family and there are many like me who are struggling to make ends meet during this lockdown. I had saved Rs 70,000 and some money which I earned recently, and I decided to use it to help the needy," said Krishna.

"In the beginning, we supplied essentials to people's doorstep and later, we called them to a Bhajana Mandir and distributed the kits in the presence of gram panchayat members," he said.

Apart from cutting wood, he also takes up other works like coconut picking and roofing work. Asked why he decided to help the needy when he himself does not have enough money, Krishna said, "I know what poverty is and I understand the hunger pangs. During this trying moment, we need to help each other," said Krishna, who has studied up to Class 9.

Apart from distributing ration kits, Krishna has been helping many poor families with ambulance expenses, in case of death. Last year too, he distributed ration kits to the needy during the lockdown.

A gang of unidentified men robbed a truck driver on a busy highway and escaped with Rs 18 lakh cash after assaulting him. The incident took place on Tumakuru Road near Nelamangala on Monday and the police are yet to trace the accused.

IndiGo flight tyre bursts, all safe

LATEST TECH WAS COMMISSIONED ONLY LAST WEEK

To prevent accidents while approaching the runway, the Instrumental Landing System technology was commissioned at the airport only last week. ILS provides accurate landing information to the pilot and the technology.

ARUNKUMAR HURALIMATH @Hubballi

AIR passengers suffered anxious moments when the Kannur-Hubballi flight experienced a tyre burst while landing at the Hubballi Airport on Monday evening. Fortunately, none of the passengers or crew members suffered any injuries.

The IndiGo ATR 6E-7979 flight, arriving from Kannur in Kerala, was scheduled to land here at 8.03 pm. But because of strong winds and rain, the first attempt was not successful. The pilots landed the flight in the second attempt at 8.33 pm and the nosegear tyres burst. Seven passengers and four crew members on board did not suffer any injuries. The flight was scheduled to later head to Bengaluru from Hubballi.

After the incident, the runway was blocked for maintenance and was opened for flight operations at 8 am on Tuesday.

Hubballi Airport Director Pramod Kumar Thakre said the flight had to make a hard landing because of squally weather and that was the reason behind the tyres burst. The runway has not suffered any damage, except for some scratches. Tyre shreds were removed and the area was cleaned before reopening the runway for the Bengaluru-Hubballi flight to land on Tuesday morning, he added.

An IndiGo technical team arrived from Bengaluru on Tuesday to repair the aircraft. The tyre was replaced, while other technical issues will be fixed by Wednesday. The ferry flight will be tried on Wednesday or Thursday, it is said.

The aircraft will not be allowed for passenger traffic till a technical team from the DGCA visits and certifies it, which is likely to take about a week, sources said.

BENGALURU: The HC on Tuesday said any decision taken subsequent to the cabinet meeting dated April 26, 2021, with respect to executing absolute sale deed in favour of JSW Steels to sell 3,677 acres of land at Ballari, is subject to orders to be passed on the PIL. A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Suraj Govindaraj passed the order after hearing a petition filed by KA Paul. He had questioned the government's proposal to sell 3,677 acres of land to JSW at a throwaway price, violating environment laws. In response to the direction issued on the last date of hearing, the government submitted a memo enclosing copies of the decision taken in the cabinet meetings of April 26 and May 27, 2021.

Don't share case info during probe, cops told

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

EXPRESSING concern over police officers divulging details before the completion of an investigation, in turn affecting trials in cases and hearing of bail pleas, the Karnataka High Court on Tuesday directed the State Government to issue comprehensive directions to all police personnel to ensure that the nature of any investigation, identity, materials recovered, etc., are not revealed to the media before the investigation is completed.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Suraj Govindaraj passed the order after hearing a PIL by H Nagabhushana Rao, who sought direction to police officers not to leak details to the media before an investigation is completed.

Referring to the disclosure of identity of a complainant and accused, the court noted that the purpose will not be served if just a circular is issued to police officers, and unless disciplinary proceedings are initiated against those who would leak details or disclose identity. Therefore, appropriate directions needs to be issued to officers in four weeks, the court said.

Before this, the government advocate submitted a circular dated June 11, 2021, issued to officers to abide by service rules, and not to leak any details to the media before completing investigation, and it would be considered 'disobedience' if details are revealed. He also drew the court's attention to similar circulars issued earlier.

Meanwhile, the court orally observed that comprehensive directions should be issued to make every officer aware, and the code of conduct needs to be laid down before police officers, instead of issuing bits and pieces of circular.

Police nab prime accused behind plot to kill producer

JAYANAGAR police, who were investigating the plot to murder Kannada film producer Umapathy and his brother, arrested the accused, Rajendra, at Pokhara in Nepal, on Monday. Rajendra alias Kariya (37), is the prime accused and a close associate of gangster Bombay Ravi.

A senior police officer supervising the investigation said that another accused, Cycle Ravi, and Rajendra wanted to have a hold in the film industry and were making extortion calls to Umapathy and his brother Deepak.

The accused had demanded ₹30 lakh, but later realised that the duo had close proximity with their rivals. When Umapathy and Deepak refused to pay up, the duo had decided to eliminate them.

Accordingly, Bombay Ravi and his associates were waiting for Umapathy and Deepak near Jayanagar 7th Block, when police arrested 11 of the associates a few days ago. Meanwhile, Bombay Ravi and Rajesh fled.

TN UNDER-REPORTED COVID DEATHS: STUDY

NGO says fatalities in 6 hospitals were 8.4 to 9.8 times higher than the number released by government

OMJASVIN MD @ Chennai

DEATHS related to Covid-19 in six government hospitals in Tamil Nadu, during the months of April and May, could be 8.4 to 9.8 times higher than the actual deaths of 863 issued by the government in its daily health bulletin, a report by NGO Arappor Iyakkam has claimed.

The NGO concluded this by drawing up the government's death certificates issued in six hospitals -- Government Rajaji Hospital in Madurai, Coimbatore Medical College Hospital, Mahatma Gandhi Memorial Medical College Hospital in Tiruchy, Vellore Medical College Hospital, Karur Medical College Hospital, and Tiruppur Government Hospital. According to their report, during April and May 2021, the six hospitals have issued a total of 11,699 death certificates.

Convenor of Arappor Iyakkam, Jayaram Venkatesan, said the NGO could only work on these six hospitals as only they had uploaded death certificates data in the State government's portal for 2019, 2020 and 2021. The NGO drew data of deaths recorded during April and May this year and compared it with that of the health bulletin, which indicated a gross mismatch.

During the said period, while there were 3,152 deaths in Madurai GH, the daily bulletin recorded only 172 Covid deaths. In the absence of any other natural calamity and the road traffic remaining less, the NGO has said that the deaths could possibly be related only to Covid.

Doctors declared his death at 3.34 am Tuesday. The 37-year-old actor was brain dead on Monday, following a head injury during an accident, when he was heading home with his friend on Saturday night, and their motorcycle skidded.

His family had come forward to donate his organs. Seven people were beneficiaries of Vijay's organ donation.

The last rites were performed as per Veerashaiva tradition, by interring his body in his friend Raghu's farm around 3.15pm. Kuppur Yateeshwara Shivacharya Swami and Madalu Niranjana Swami led the rituals. Vijay's brothers Virupaksha and Soddesh performed the rituals. The police fired three rounds in the air as a mark of respect to the departed actor.

Police limited the presence of people, keeping in mind Covid-19 guidelines. People from neighbouring villages gathered at the village. Minister Madhuswamy, MLCs C T Ravi and Belli Prakash, former MLA YSV Datta, director Mansoore, BS Lingadevaru, actor Neenasam Satish and others were present.

Meanwhile, the US Consulate in Chennai expressed condolences in Kannada and English. In a tweet, the consulate said, "?Our condolences to the family and fans of Kannada actor #SanchariVijay. 'Pay salaries of MSME staffers from ESI corpus'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Mangaluru

KANARA Chamber of Commerce and Industry has urged Prime Minister Narendra Modi to consider payment of wages to employees of all Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSME) from Employees' State Insurance (ESI) corpus.

In a letter to the Prime Minister, KCCI president Isaac Vas said MSMEs are facing a very difficult time due to the extended lockdown and hence there is a need to implement a suitable solution to raise the sinking industries. "We understand that the ESI has a surplus corpus of ₹60,000 crore collected over the period. These funds primarily belong to employers and employees who have been contributing over the period."

He said small industries are hugely burdened with the fixed costs like paying rent, security, salaries, electricity while the revenues are hit hard and in some cases no revenues during this period. Many MSMEs industries are not able to pay salaries to their employees. Though these employers have been always remitting the statutory contributions of EPF, ESI and also the EMI contributions, the pandemic and subsequent lockdown has hit them hard resulting in default of payment of salaries too.

Hence, he said, paying them wages using ESI corpus would greatly benefit employees in earning their livelihood during the lockdown period as the employers are finding it difficult to pay them.

"You may consider paying 50% of the wages during the lockdown period from the corpus. This would also help the industries to retain manpower against migrating to other places or hometown in search of livelihood."

NIA court convicts three LeT terrorists to 10 years in jail

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE National Investigation Agency (NIA) Special Court in Mumbai on Tuesday has convicted and sentenced three Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) terrorists to 10 years rigorous imprisonment under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) in the Nanded LeT case.

The NIA court has convicted Mohd Muzammil, Mohd Sadiq and Mohd Akram alias Imran Khan alias Khaled under Sections 18, 20, 38 of the UA(P) Act. The court has awarded 10 years rigorous imprisonment to Muzammil under the UAPA and five years under the Arms Act with a fine of Rs 5,000, while the other two have been sentenced to 10 years RI under the UAPA.

The case was initially registered at the ATS Kalachowki, Mumbai, on August 31, 2012 under the Arms Act relating to the arrest of accused persons and recovery of firearms, the NIA has stated. "Initial investigation had revealed that the accused were members of the banned terrorist organisations Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) and Harkat-ul-Jihad-e-Islami (HuJI). Accordingly, Sections of UAPA Act were invoked in the case. The NIA had re-registered the case on June 24, 2013 and taken over the investigation," the agency added.

According to the NIA, Akram had gone to Saudi Arabia on the pretext of seeking employment as a driver with the help of wanted accused Mohammed Abdul Majeed, who is a native of Hyderabad and is presently settled in Riyadh. "During his stay in Saudi Arabia, Akram was introduced to various LeT members/operatives including absconding accused Siddique Bin Usman alias Abu Hanzala alias Abdul Furkhan Bhai alias Abdullah, who is a native of Hyderabad, as well as Mohamed Shaeed Faisal alias Ustad alias Umar alias Zaikr, who is a native of Bengaluru, but settled in Saudi Arabia. Akram and other accused persons had held conspiracy meetings at Riyadh and Dammam to carry out targeted killings of prominent Hindu leaders, journalists, politicians and police officers in various parts of India," the NIA has stated. Akram, according to the agency, was then sent back to India for executing these killings in different cities including Bengaluru, Hyderabad and Nanded to create terror in society.

"He had assigned the task of identifying suitable targets to Muzzamil and Sadiq, his old associates from Nanded. They all had travelled to Hyderabad in June, 2012 to meet Akram's associate Obaid-ur-Rehaman for identification of suitable targets to carry out the terror attacks. The latter has been arrested and charge-sheeted in an earlier terror case," the NIA has stated.

Fuel price hike a boon for cash-strapped TS govt

VV BALAKRISHNA @ Hyderabad

THE hike in prices of petrol and diesel has come as a blessing in disguise for the cash-strapped Telangana government as it is helping the State shore up its revenues at the rate of an additional ₹150 crore to ₹200 crore per month, without increasing the Value Added Tax (VAT) on hydrocarbon fuels.

At the price of ₹100 per litre for petrol and that of diesel a close second, the State is making nearly ₹1,000 crore per month. The VAT on petrol is 35.2 per cent; for diesel, it is 27 per cent on sale price.

The sudden windfall is caused by an increase in accrual of VAT on petrol. If the price goes up by ₹1, it will fetch an additional income of around ₹14 crore per month.

In the last six months, the price of petrol has gone up by ₹13 per litre. This, in turn, means that the State gets an additional revenue anywhere between ₹150 crore and ₹200 every month.

The petrol price in Hyderabad in the first week of April this year was around ₹94 per litre. There has been a ₹6 hike in price in the last two months and a ₹13 hike in the last six months.

ODISHA PLANS TO OPEN UP IN A DAY OR TWO

Bhubaneswar: With Covid-19 positive cases showing a declining trend in Odisha during the last week and test positivity rate (TPR) falling below five per cent (pc) in several districts, the State government is likely to start the unlock process in a day or two. 'Wanted to do cattle research, but now herding them'

SUBASHINI VIJAYAKUMAR @Erode

TIRED of legal struggles because of a technical glitch in the admission quota, U Chandran's hopes of becoming a veterinary doctor was becoming distant with every passing day. The tribal student from the remote village of Sundaipodu in Bargur in Erode district has now appealed to CM MK Stalin to help him get a seat in the Tamil Nadu Veterinary and Animal Sciences University (TANUVAS), this year at least.

Twenty-year-old U Chandran lives in a hut in his village, that is difficult to reach and has no mobile signal. He belongs to the Cholagar tribal community and lives with his parents and nine siblings. Rescued from child labour, Chandran studied at a special school run under the National Child Labour Project in Kongadai, and was later mainstreamed. He was the first person to complete class 12 from his village and scored 444 marks out of 600, studying Agriculture Practices, a vocational discipline, in a government school in Gobichettipalayam.

Chandran with his parents at his hut in Sundaipodu village of Erode district | EXPRESS

Chandran then, applied for the Bachelor of Veterinary Sciences and Animal Husbandry course, offered by TANUVAS in 2019-20. As per the list, he was placed at 146th position among all the vocational stream candidates and in the ST category, he secured the first rank.

However, Chandran couldn't get the seat as TANUVAS allocates only 5 per cent (18 seats) of the 360 seats to students studying vocational courses. Of those 18 seats, only one per cent is allocated to tribal students, that is 0.18 seat. Considering this, the university took the stand that ST category student will not be eligible, as a result of which tribal students from remote areas are unable to get admission.

HIGH INFLATION IN A LOCKDOWN IS A DOUBLE WHAMMY

The continuous demand to tighten his belt may soon leave the common man with no waist at all! Latest figures from the National Statistical Office (NSO) show India's retail inflation shooting to 6.3% in May, breaching the Reserve Bank's target of above 4% (+/-2%) for the first time in six months. After easing to a three-month low of 4.29% in April, inflation has shot up on the back of rising food and fuel prices. In April, the government kept fuel on a plateau as six states went to the polls. However, soon after the elections were over on May 2, petrol and diesel prices shot up 11.6%. Food inflation has now increased to 5% and significantly, the costs of protein foods like meat, fish and eggs have spiralled up the most.

Wholesale price-based inflation too has hit an all-time high of 12.5% in May as the markets saw a spike in prices of manufactured products, crude oil and mineral oils. The retail price of diesel/petrol, which has a cascading inflationary effect on a spectrum of goods, is unfortunately inching up and will add to inflation. With oil demand rising and the Saudis continuing to press for production, investment banker Goldman Sachs estimates Brent crude rising to $80 a barrel over the next six months, before easing off.

This scenario is a cause for concern for a Covid-hit economy. It has left very little headroom for the RBI. Cutting interest rates any further would only add to the inflationary pressure. So would printing bank notes, as some quarters have been advocating, to galvanise spending. In today's context, high inflation is double jeopardy for the common man. Millions have lost their jobs in the lockdown, and those who have them have taken big wage cuts. This is hardly a time to be facing spiralling prices of daily needs such as meat and vegetables. One hopes the Central government steps in quickly to ensure that the prime minister's promise of free food till Deepavali for 800 million people is implemented immediately and that proactive steps are taken to cool overheated prices.

TAKE CARE OF COVID ORPHANS

As the grim second wave of Covid-19 ebbs away after the horrific run of death, sickness and gloom, the country is presented with a crisis it had not foreseen—that of children orphaned by the pandemic. From across states, heart-rending reports of kids grappling with loss and abandonment are pouring in. Pictures of a seven-year-old girl holding on to her two-month-old brother after Covid snatched away both their parents in Odisha's Balasore can melt even the coldest of hearts. Similar is the story of a 14-year-old boy in Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, who has to tend to his seven-year-old sibling as they live in the care of their ageing grandparents.

States have come forward with schemes that provide fixed deposits, monthly pensions, full education assistance as well as institutional support. The Centre too has announced a specially designed scheme under which children who lost both their parents would be entitled to a corpus of ₹10 lakh when they reach 18. Much of it is welcome but there are challenges galore in the absence of a uniform system across states. Covid death in itself is such a contentious subject and states resort to various filters of comorbidities during final audits. Besides, the number of unreported deaths may be substantial in the absence of tests and hospitalisation. Under such circumstances, the burden of proof is either on the orphans or the NGOs that track them down. More importantly, the identification of orphans is slow despite the availability of an entire social security network through district child protection units. This could have serious ramifications in states where child trafficking is a menace. Another problem is the definition of Covid orphans, which is determined by loss of both parents. Little attention is given to those left with single parents in economically weaker sections who become extremely vulnerable.

The issue of children orphaned by the pandemic can turn into a huge social problem in the years to come unless it is systematically addressed. For this, the Centre must take this task upon itself so that no vulnerable child is left out of the system.

Some of the measures in the agreed agenda of the new government are pioneering but controversial. The fragility of the coalition was palpable even before the Monday vote

CAN PATHBREAKING NEW ISRAELI GOVT LAST LONGER?

The new Israeli government headed by Naftali Bennett (with Yair Lapid as the alternate prime minister) sworn in on Monday establishes several precedents and breaks barriers. Bennett became the first religiously observant person to head the Israeli government. Until now, all the prime ministers were notionally secular, even if they presented themselves as 'observant' due to political considerations; for example, even during foreign trips, Shimon Peres preferred to walk on Jewish sabbath than travel by car.

Leader of the Ra'am party Mansour Abbas broke the psychological Jewish-Arab barrier and emerged as the kingmaker of the new government. His willingness to break away from the Joint Arab List and explore coalition possibilities with Likud leader Benjamin Netanyahu largely enabled the Islamist party to join the Bennett-Lapid coalition.

Despite having a woman prime minister in Golda Meir, female political representation in Israel has not been impressive. With religious and Arab parties not preferring women politicians, the task fell on mainstream parties. The current Knesset has the highest number of 30 women members (same as in the March 2020 election), and the new government has eight women ministers. Some of the key positions, such as interior, education and transportation, are held by women. The Cabinet also has two minority ministers and the Ethiopia-born Pnina Tamano-Shata as absorption minister.

Under the rotation agreement, Bennett would serve until September 2023, when Lapid, the alternate prime minister, would take over. Even though Netanyahu signed a similar agreement with Blue and White leader Benny Gantz following the March 2020 election, his going back on the agreement forced another election this March.

The coalition is an ideological hotchpotch, and its 61 members belong to eight different parties: three right-wing parties, namely, Yisrael Beitenu (seven seats), New Hope (six seats) and Yamina (six of its seven MKs); two left-wing parties—Labour (seven seats) and Meretz (six seats); two centrist parties—Yesh Atid (17 seats) and Blue and White (eight seats) and one Arab party (Ra'am, four seats). Interestingly, the leader of the coalition comes not from the two larger parties but from a smaller outfit, one of whose members has bolted out over Yamina abandoning Netanyahu.

By all accounts, Yesh Atid leader Yair Lapid wields the real power. Though the opposition made innumerable efforts to unseat Netanyahu, by conceding the prime ministership to Bennett, a former protegee of Netanyahu, Lapid could convince the right-wing parties about the idea that Netanyahu was dangerous to Israel and must be replaced.

Some of the measures in the agreed agenda of the new government are pathbreaking but controversial. While a developmental and inclusive approach towards the Arab population is long overdue, the coalition is also committed to bringing in far-reaching religious reforms. Among others, it promises to end the monopoly of the financially lucrative and politically important Kashrut services, which grant kosher certificate to foods consumed by religiously inclined Israelis; reform the process of selecting chief rabbis that is presently controlled by the ultra-orthodox segment; and decentralise conversion process to the local level. The coalition is committed to expanding and standardising conscription for Haredi men and bringing in an alternative national service for the minority population.

Given the composition and general agreement among the parties, the scope for expansion is highly limited, especially since the coalition promises religious reform measures that are anathema to the Haredi parties

While promising to maintain the religious status quo, Yesh Atid's agreement with other partners touches upon issues that are redlines for the Haredi community. Yisrael Beitenu, whose anti-Haredi posture was partly responsible for four elections in two years, wields a veto over any expansion of the current coalition. This, in practical terms, would mean no Haredi party could join the Bennett-Lapid government. Yisrael Beitenu and left-wing Meretz demand public transportation on sabbath. These two parties and Labour are committed to recognising and advancing the rights of the LGBT community in the country.

Given the composition and general agreement among the parties, the scope for expansion is highly limited, especially since the coalition promises religious reform measures that are anathema to the Haredi parties. Except for the Joint Arab List with six MKs, only right-wing and religious parties make up the opposition, and in recent decades, they have acted as a political bloc to maximise their influence. Even though staying out of government would be a financial liability, the religious parties will not give up their existing privileges and veto.

The fragility of the coalition was palpable even before the Knesset vote on Monday. The original support of 61 MKs could not be maintained when Ra'am MK Saeed al-Harum abstained due to concerns over possible demolition of illegal Bedouin houses in the Negev. Another MK from Yisrael Beitenu sulked over his portfolio, forcing Avigdor Lieberman to tap Druze MK Hamed Amar for a Cabinet position. The first test for the Bennett-Lapid government has come just a day after it was sworn in the form of the Jerusalem flag march by right-wing groups, which could not be conducted earlier due to rocket attacks from the Gaza Strip.

GETTING READY FOR THE THIRD CORONA WAVE

VIJAYA SUNDER M

Asst Professor (Practice), Operations Management Department, ISB

MILIND G SOHONI

Professor, Operations Management Department & Deputy Dean, ISB

After thousands of people died in the first wave of Covid-19 in 2020, we witnessed more than four times the destruction in 2021. About six months after the peak of the first wave in September 2020, India failed to prepare for the second one until its arrival in March 2021. On the one hand, in several parts of the country, communities reopened malls, cinemas, bars and restaurants. Naturally, people were eager to go out and resume some of their regular activities. A few business firms resumed as though there had been no pandemic during the six-month break. On the other hand, while medical experts advised precautions should continue, including physical distancing, hand-washing, and mask-wearing, many of us threw caution to the winds.

Observers stated that the nationwide lockdown had slowed the growth rate of the pandemic, but a resumption resulted in significant confusion after November 2020. A well-managed phase-wise unlock in the first wave was not seen nationwide during the second. The lockdown decisions were left at the discretion of state governments. While Maharashtra, Punjab, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, Kerala and Uttar Pradesh imposed strict curbs, a few other states like Telangana, Gujarat, Andhra Pradesh and West Bengal had only partial lockdowns during the second wave. Inter-state movement of people was disregarded. While lockdowns retarded economic activity, they made no significant improvement case-wise in the second wave without a nationwide shutdown. According to a recent estimate, India's GDP contracted by 7.3% in 2020-21. The net direct tax collections, an indicator of economic activity, was only 5% higher in 2021 when compared to that in 2020 during the first wave.

While the first wave created a supply problem as the transportation sector was shut down for a few months, the biggest toll of the second wave was in terms of a demand shock—loss of mobility, discretionary spending and employment besides inventory accumulation, according to the Reserve Bank of India. Further, several parts of rural India witnessed Covid-19 cases in the second wave, unlike in the first. Consequently, commodities like vegetables, pulses and coffee supplies were affected.

During the second wave, there was a dearth of oxygen. Governments started several oxygen plants across the country and routed industrial oxygen to increase the stock. However, due to cylinder and tanker shortages, the demands weren't met on time. Oxygen was transported via trains and flights but on many occasions failed to meet full demand requirements. Consequently, oxygen consumption was only 54% of production capacity in April 2021. In addition, we witnessed a chronic shortage of space in intensive care wards, with many patients' families forced to drive for miles to find a bed for their loved ones. Before the second wave hit, India had about 0.5 hospital beds for every 1,000 people, compared with a global average of nearly 2.9. While the Indian Railways, several NGOs and government agencies created temporary bed care centres, these were only reactive measures.

Another critical issue was the shortage of RT-PCR tests in a few instances. Several states struggled to detect and isolate the infected. Further, on many occasions, false-negative RT-PCR reports have led to confusion. Amidst the chaos, the best thing that happened in the second wave was the vaccination drive. As of 3 June 2021, 21.3 crore vaccine doses were administered, and 3.2% of the Indian population has been fully inoculated. Though the spread of infection has been showing a declining trend in the second wave since June 2021, it is certainly not the end of Covid-19. Even a single case of infection left unnoticed could spread and repeat the whole cycle of adversity. Are we prepared to handle the third wave? What can we do in the next few months to avoid another disaster?

Though the spread of infection appears to be on the decline in the second wave since June, it is certainly not the end of Covid. Even a single case left unnoticed could spread and repeat the whole cycle of adversity. Are we prepared to handle the third wave? What can we do to avoid another disaster?

Be fast and proactive: Even though the 68-day hard lockdown in the first wave appeared to be a control measure, it is unlikely that the empowered groups will recommend such a nationwide step again. Thus, state governments have a critical role to play—they need to gauge basic needs and impose restrictions accordingly. A full unlock may lead to a repeat of the disaster that we witnessed after the first wave. Another proactive measure is to prioritise vaccinations for the people working in critical supply chains. Given that the vaccination drive has opened up for those in the 18-to-45-year age group, some relief could be felt, but with only 3.2% citizens fully inoculated, the pace is still a concern. Thirdly, with rich pharma sector companies and drug and equipment manufacturers in the country, product innovation and R&D should be leveraged for self-testing of infections.

Be open-minded and adaptive: We should learn and adopt best practices from countries that have reported almost nil infections. For example, to support businesses and workers, the government of Australia provided subsidies to firms to keep people employed. Another example is South Korea that learned from its mistakes during the MERS pandemic outbreak of 2015. After an outcry, the country built a new public health system that snapped into action in early 2020 and successfully contained Covid-19. We can also learn from the UK that detected different variants of Covid-19 entering the nation, imposed a ban on visitors and conducted technology-led awareness campaigns on the importance of vaccination.

Be cooperative and responsible: Policymakers and healthcare leaders must focus on driving awareness and creating infrastructure towards promoting citizen-driven responsiveness. While the states and the Centre have an extensive vital role to play to contain the pandemic, the general public needs to cooperate and abide by the rules. Responsible implementation of protocols of pandemic control such as social distancing, constrained citizen mobility, hand washing, in-house toileting and avoiding spitting in open areas requires far more than merely investing in traditional public health systems. Governments, socially responsible corporate giants and NGOs should consider investing in building awareness in citizen communities towards improving their state of living. Without cooperation from the general public, state responsiveness alone will not effectively control the third wave around the corner.

Violence against docs

The frequent physical attacks on doctors and other healthcare professionals are worrisome and need to be condemned in no uncertain terms. Severe penal provisions like making such assaults non-bailable offences should be considered by the government to curb this menace. We express our solidarity with the doctors and other healthcare workers who have been tirelessly fighting the pandemic.

Loans written off

As reported, nearly ₹7 lakh crore of bad loans were written off by the banks in the last four years. It appears that the government, RBI and banks are not serious about this issue as it has become a routine process to write off NPAs.

Steps to increase spending

The article Where is the consumer confidence? (Jun 15) is timely. Both the Central and state governments must perceive the need of the hour and act immediately. The first step would be to go for direct cash transfers to the vulnerable sections of our society like daily wage earners and street vendors, apart from free ration. The next initiative would be to provide affordable and quick funding to MSMEs as well as handholding them with technological help.

This is with reference to NATO leaders declare China a global security challenge (Jun 15). NATO countries have finally shown some spine and criticised China for military aggression and its trade and human rights practices. It is also essential to probe China's role in Covid origin and make it pay compensation for the humongous deaths and economic destruction worldwide.

Fuel prices and inflation

Petrol and diesel are the essential needs of common citizens but the government is putting heavy taxes on them as if they are luxury items. The rise in fuel prices is triggering inflation. Are the governments there to control inflation or to increase it? Fuel prices should be brought under GST and inflation will come down.

T Kailash Ditya, Hyderabad

Look at alternative energy

Now, diesel too has crossed the ₹100 mark. We should look at alternative energy sources. Farmers should be provided with subsidised electric tractors, whose production needs to be increased on a war footing. This will also cut our import burden and reduce our carbon footprint in the long run.

CPI & illegal tree felling

The CPI, considered to be the gentleman's party in Kerala, is facing a tough predicament because of alleged illegal tree felling. Ministers from the CPI rarely face corruption charges but this time many believe their hands are not clean. It is a black mark on the CPI and one will have to wait and see if the party can come out of this unscathed.

WE NEEDED LOGISTICS LIKE FEDEX, AMAZON: VED ARYA

The RCRC Founder talked about how essential medical supplies were not reaching people in time to make a difference because of a lack of robust logistic infrastructure

The fear is real

Like everyone else, Arya too is worried, "People are really scared during the second wave and it is affecting their mental health. This fear is being reinforced by the news on television," said the social entrepreneur LOGISTICS across the country is not the central government's strong suit. This time, the central government has given the responsibility to the state governments and I think this was required, said Ved Arya, Founder of Rapid Rural Community Response to COVID. "For example, the oxygen concentrators are arriving from abroad and we needed to run a system like FedEx or Amazon to transport them in time. That infrastructure is not in place. This is where cooperative federalism was really needed, whatever central and state relations may be, (they) should have acted like one nation. Oxygen concentrators were needed a month ago when we didn't have enough, but now we have an excess of everything," he added. Arya was speaking at The New Indian Express' online event COVID Think Tank on The Cost of Lockdown: What Could We Have Done. The session aired on June 15. He was in conversation with Senior Journalist and Author Kaveree Bamzai.

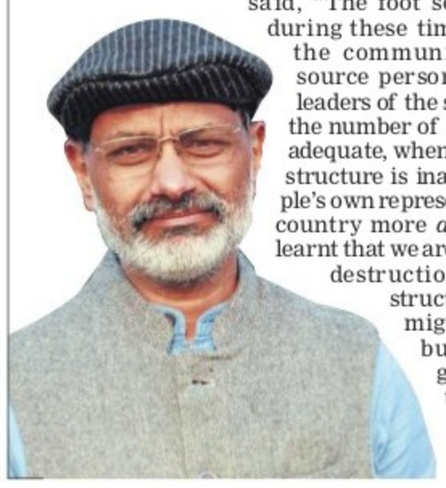
Speaking about some lessons that we have learnt from the first wave, Arya said, "The foot soldiers during these times are the community resource persons — such as women leaders of the self-help groups. When the number of ASHA workers are inadequate, when the rural health infrastructure is inadequate, then the people's own representatives will make the country more atmanirbhar. We also learnt that we are not prepared for such destruction. Last time, the destruction was in the form of migrants returning home, but this time it is migrants returning with the virus. COVID is no longer restricted to urban centres."

We should have a second rung of another 10 lakh ASHA workers. This is quite important because rural health infrastructure has always been inadequate

Ved Arya, RCRC



Have we made things worse after first wave?

AS India begins to gradually find its feet after a debilitating second wave of the dreaded Coronavirus, it is just as important to look back as it is to look forward. And in looking back, public health policy expert Dr Chandrakant Lahariya believes that in not standardising our systems, India may have worsened things after the first wave. "The focus was only on increasing beds and ventilators, testing and so on. The concept of a health system was not fully understood — it was a great opportunity — and India faltered. During the period of low transmission, between November 2020 and February 2021, nothing was done to standardise health systems and we have seen the effect of that. That is one lesson for the third wave and the period ahead," he said while in conversation with Senior Journalist Kaveree Bamzai at TNIE's COVID Think Tank that aired on June 15.

Talking about why the short-term approach actually led to a lot of chaos during the second wave, Lahariya explained, "There was some attention paid to ventilators, testing kits and PPE but nothing major to boost health system capacity. Most of it was focused on temporary care centres that were dismantled by January. Secondly, it was dependent on private sector participation — like converting banquet halls or hotel rooms into (hospital) beds. But only on an ad hoc basis. We should have strengthened capacity by then. We know that much of the response came from the private sector and we know how much people have suffered by paying. It's a result of insufficient attention and action. If governments don't act now, the question is, when will they?"

The Indian healthcare system has been ignored historically and traditionally. There have been lots of political promises but they have never been followed through

Legitimate dissent a key feature of democracy: HC

Natasha Narwal lost her father to Covid during her incarceration | FILE

'Wanton use of serious penal provisions only trivialise them'

KANU SARDA @New Delhi

A protest by college students doesn't shake the foundations of our nation, said the Delhi High Court which also cautioned the police against the mindless use of the UAPA.

"We are of the view that the foundations of our nation stand on surer footing than to be likely to be shaken by a protest, however vicious, organised by a tribe of college students or other persons, operating as a coordination committee from the confines of a University situate in the heart of Delhi," it said granting bail to Asif Iqbal Tanha who was charged under the stringent Act.

Cautioning against the frivolously invocation of the Act, the court added that such an approach would undermine the intent and purpose of Parliament in enacting a law that is meant to address threats to the very existence of the nation.

"Wanton use of serious penal provisions would only trivialise them," it said.

The court asserted that terrorism under UAPA ought to be understood differently from conventional, heinous crimes that fall within the IPC. "In our opinion, the intent and purport of Parliament in enacting the UAPA, and more specifically in amending it in 2004 and 2008 to bring terrorist activity within its scope, was, and could only have had been, to deal with matters of profound impact on the 'Defence of India', nothing more and nothing less."

The HC rejected the police's stand that the protests were not typical but aggravated and intended to disrupt the life of the community in Delhi.

There was absolutely nothing in the charge sheet to charge Tanha under various sections of the UAPA, it noted.

SANA SHAKIL @New Delhi

IN its order granting bail to activists Natasha Narwal, Devanagana Kalita and Asif Iqbal Tanha in the North East Delhi riots conspiracy case, the Delhi High Court underscored the constitutional right of people to dissent and protest.

Dismissing the charges of UAPA against the trio, the HC noted, "in its anxiety to suppress dissent and in the morbid fear that matters may get out of hand, the State has blurred the line between the constitutionally guaranteed 'right to protest' and 'terrorist activity". In the bail orders of Narwal and Kalita, it also observed that "if such blurring gains traction, democracy would be in peril."

Mincing no words, the two-judge bench in the bail order of Kalita stated, "We are afraid, that in our opinion, shorn-off the superfluous verbiage, hyperbole and the stretched inferences drawn from them by the prosecuting agency, the factual allegations made against the appellant do not prima facie disclose the commission of any offence under Sections 15 (Terrorist act), 17 (Punishment for raising funds for terrorist act) and 18 (Punishment for conspiracy) of the UAPA."

In separate judgments, the court said even if it were to assume for the sake of argument, that in the present case inflammatory speeches, chakkajams, instigation of women protesters and other actions, which Narwal and Kalita are accused of, 'crossed the line of peaceful protests permissible under Constitutional guarantee, that however would yet not amount to commission of a 'terrorist act' or a 'conspiracy' or an 'act preparatory' to the commission of a terrorist act as understood under the UAPA.

Making inflammatory speeches, organising chakka-jams etc were common in the face of widespread opposition to governmental or parliamentary actions, it noted. "Legitimate dissent is a distinguishable feature of any democracy and the question is not whether the issue raised by the protestors is right or wrong or whether it is justified or unjustified. The fundamental aspect is the right which is conferred upon the affected people in a democracy to voice their grievances..."

Centre confirms one death of vax beneficiary

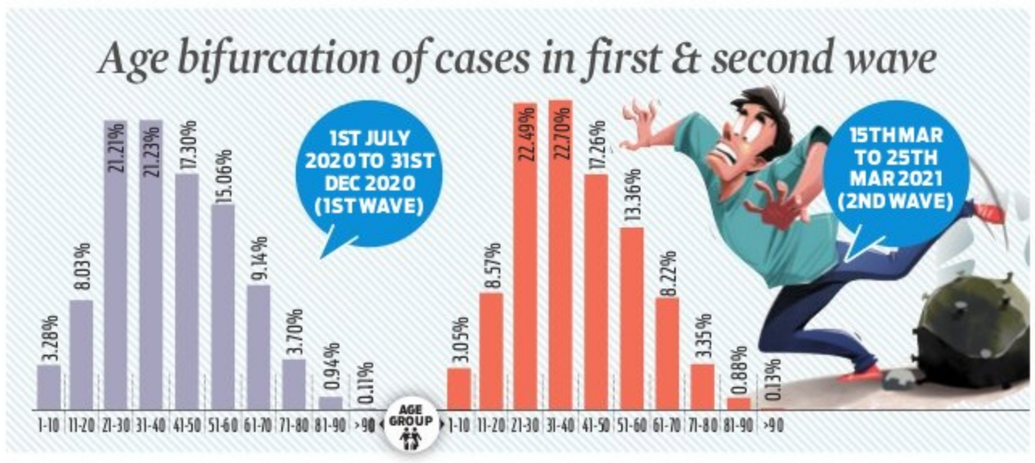
SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

THE Centre has recorded India's first Covid vaccine-related death since the start of the vaccination campaign and classified seven other post-vaccination deaths as "indeterminate" indicating there is no evidence to connect them to the jabs.

The victim, a 68-year-old man, died on March 21. The cause of death was severe allergic reaction to the vaccine but it's not clear whether the dose was Covishield or Covaxin.

Top authorities stressed that the data on adverse effects should not be used to create any doubts about the Covid-19 vaccines. The finding related to the confirmed death has come out in a report on causality assessment results of 31 reported serious AEFI cases following Covid vaccination approved by National AEFI Committee carried out on February 5, March 9 and March 31.

It said that 18 deaths were classified as having inconsistent causal association to vaccination (coincidental -not linked to vaccination), 7 were classified as indeterminate, 3 cases were found to be vaccine product related, 1 was anxiety related reaction and 2 cases were found to be unclassifiable.



Delta plus variant is being closely monitored: Panel

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE government is keeping watch on delta plus, which is yet to be classified as a variant of concern, strain of Corona virus, national Covid19 task force head V K Paul said.

Paul said the delta variant or B.1.617 strain, first detected in Maharashtra in India, played a major a role in the second wave of the pandemic in the country. "An additional mutation of this variant, namely Delta Plus, has been found and submitted to the global data system," said Paul, adding that it had emerged in Europe in March and was brought into the public domain on June 13.

Paul, however, said that the new delta plus strain is yet to be classified as a "variant of concern," adding that the government is keeping a close eye on its progress. "As per data available in the public domain, this variant nullifies the use of monoclonal antibodies, currently being used in mild moderate Covid patients with good results. We will study it..."

The B.1.617.2.1 variant is characterised by the acquisition of K417N mutation, according to scientists. The mutation is in the spike protein of SARS CoV 2, helping the virus enter and infect human cells.

Till a few days back, there were 36 cases of the new variant in the UK while it made up 6% of all cases in the US.

₹150 per dose pricing not viable, says Bharat Biotech

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

FACING criticism on the high price of Covaxin in private hospitals, Bharat Biotech on Tuesday defended the costs saying that the price of ₹150 per dose to the Centre is "non-competitive and not sustainable in the long run."

Covaxin has kept its price at ₹1,200 per dose to private hospitals.

Adding ₹150 per dose as administrative charges, fixed by government for vaccine in private hospitals and GST, this vaccine is slated to cost ₹1,470 per dose in non-government vaccination centres from June 21.

The price for Covaxin will be higher than Covishield and Sputnik V in private hospitals. As of now too, people are paying ₹1,250 -₹1,800 for a dose of Covaxin in private hospitals.

"The supply price of Covaxin to the government at ₹150 / dose, is a non-competitive price and clearly not sustainable in the long run. Hence a higher price in private markets is required to offset part of the costs," the company said.

There are examples of such pricing policies where HPV virus vaccine is priced for GAVI supplies around ₹320 but is also available in private market at nearly ₹3,500 per dose and rotavirus vaccines are supplied to the government at ₹60 per dose, but is also available in the private market at ₹1,700 per dose, the company said.

The prices for Covid-19 vaccines internationally have varied between ₹730 and ₹2,700 per dose, it added.

"In our view, the question of product pricing is only of extraneous interest to all concerned, especially when the same vaccine is made available free of cost," the Hyderabad based vaccine maker said.

Working population, elders most infected by viral surge in Maharashtra

Women take the jabs at a vaccination centre in Mumbai on Tuesday | PTI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mumbai

DATA from the Maharashtra health department has revealed that the people in the 41-50 age group comprising 8.45% of the population was infected the most — at 17.99%.

Children up to 10 years of age were infected at 3.12% of their population share. The percentage of infection among senior citizens in the age group of 61-70 years was 9.60 %.

The state has a total progressive 59,17,672 Covid cases reported against its 11.19 crore population. The mortality figure is 1,11,104, which is 1.88% against India's 1.27 %. Punjab still reports the highest 2.65% mortality, following 2.06 % in Uttarakhand, 1.92% in Nagaland. Thus Maharashtra is fourth on the mortality front.

The population data also reveals that in Maharashtra, the aged population (those in the 60-110-year group) has increased to 45%. The children's population is 0.86% of the total count while the working population — those between 30 years and 60 years — is around 25% across the state.

There are 1,47,354 active positive cases in the state. The highest cases — 19,047 – were reported from Pune, 18,205 in Mumbai, 15,696 cases in Thane, 15,156 cases in Kolhapur and 6,261 in Nagpur. The high positivity is still reported in western Maharashtra and the Konkan region.

Relief and Rehabilitation Minister Vijay Wadettiwar said the pandemic situation in the state was under control, though some districts were still reporting a high positivity rate. "If the situation does not improve, then the government would have to re-impose the stringent restrictions," Wadettiwar said.

Maharashtra on Tuesday reported 9,350 new coronavirus cases, up from 8,129 a day ago, taking its tally to 59,24,773, while 388 more deaths pushed the toll to 1,14,154, the state health department said.

The state's COVID-19 recovery rate is 95.69 per cent, while the case fatality rate is 1.93 per cent, it said.

As many as 15,176 patients were discharged from hospitals in the last 24 hours, taking the number of recovered cases to 56,69,179, the statement from the health department added.

LJP COUP

Uncle, nephew fight for control

Chirag expels five rebel MPs a day after he was supplanted as party chief by his uncle

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

A day after a coup led by his uncle Pashupati Paras created a vertical split in the LJP, tug-of-war for party's control intensified on Tuesday, with the five rebel MPs naming former parliamentarian Surajbhan Singh as the working president. Hours after the rebels met in New Delhi, Chirag Paswan expelled the five MPs, including Paras. How the expulsions affect the rebels is not clear as Lok Sabha speaker has already recognised Paras as LJP's floor leader.

The rebels said that a decision on the national president, likely to be Paras, would be taken soon after the party's national working committee meets. Chirag, however, was consulting legal experts to tackle the rebellion.

Surajbhan Singh, the new working president selected by the rebels, is an LJP former MP from Munger; he is debarred from contesting election after his conviction in a murder case. Surajbhan's younger brother Chandan Singh and wife Veena Devi are party's MPs from Nawada and Munger, respectively, and are among the five rebels.

While Paras is likely to return to Patna on Wednesday, Chirag's supporters, who protested against the rebellion outside party's office in the state capital, threatened they will not allow his loyalists or him to set foot inside the party office.

Meanwhile, JD(U) continued deflecting allegations that the split was engineered by Nitish Kumar, with party leader Sanjay Singh, who met the LJP rebels in New Delhi on Monday, saying upon his return to Patna that the ruling party had no role in the the coup.

Meanwhile, Chirag accused Paras of anti-party activities. Taking to Twitter, Chirag shared a 6-page letter written to Hajipur MP Pashupati Paras on March 29 this year. "I tried to keep this party, floated by my father and my family, together but failed. The party is like mother and mother should not be cheated", the letter read. Chirag said Paras had started distancing himself from party activities and had steadfastly thwarted his attempts at reconciliation.

BSP rebels weigh their options as election nears

LEFT with only seven MLAs in a house of 403 after a suspension/expulsion spree, the poll prospects of BSP ahead of next year's polls look bleak, with some rebels sending feelers to Samajwadi Party, and others mulling floating an outfit. At least five MLAs may contest on Samajwadi Party ticket, said a rebel MLA after meeting SP leader Akhilesh Yadav in Lucknow on Tuesday.

Sushma Patel, an MLA from Mungra Badshahpur segment in Jaunpur district said: "I have decided to contest 2022 polls on Samajwadi Party ticket. We met Akhilesh ji to discuss our future. We were expelled wrongly last year." However, not all were in favour of switching camp. Some wanted to form a separate party.

Aslam Rainee, one of the suspended MLAs, said: "We will form a separate party with 12 MLAs and then decide on future course."

BSP had won total 19 seats in the 2017 Assembly election; it has 18 now. However, of the 18, nine have been suspended, while two expelled.

Ramachal Rajbhar (Akbarpur) and Lalji Verma (Tanda), both founding members of the BSP, were expelled earlier this month. Replying to the queries related to the matter, both the senior leaders denied any knowledge of the meeting.

Replying to the queries related to the matter, both the senior leaders denied any knowledge of the meeting. However, Lalji Verma told this newspaper that he was not aware of the MLAs meeting Akhilesh. Lalji Verma, MLA from Tanda, is likely to be selected as leader of the rebel faction.

He has been accusing BSP MP Ritesh Pandey for his ouster. Ritesh Pandey, son of former BSP MP Rakesh Pandey, won 2019 Lok Sabha election from Ambedkar Nagar.

Grain scam rattles Conrad govt as Oppn bays for blood

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Guwahati

AN alleged multi-crore rupees foodgrain scam, involving the Food Corporation of India (FCI), Shillong, has shaken the Meghalaya government. The Assam Police unearthed the scam by seizing one lakh bags of rice from a private godown in Boko of Kamrup district, Assam. Each bag contained 50 kg rice. The Assam Police said the matter was being probed.

"A huge quantity of rice was seized and we are going by the laws. We have written to the agency concerned. A response is awaited," Kamrup Deputy Superintendent of Police (DSP), Kalyan Kumar Pathak told this newspaper. Earlier, a case was registered by the police suo motu under various Sections of the Indian Penal Code. The Meghalaya government has washed its hands of the incident but some influential organisations in the state are going for its jugular while Congress and BJP, which is a constituent of the state's ruling coalition, are demanding a probe.

Chief Minister, Conrad K Sangma said the incident had nothing to do with the public distribution system (PDS) in Meghalaya. He said the verbal reports he received suggested the state has received its quota of PDS rice under the National Food Security Act, 2013, for May and June in advance.

"We have no idea if Meghalaya rice is lying in Assam," the CM said. He said if rice of such a huge quantity had gone missing, it would have come to everyone's notice.

However, the Congress and the BJP were not amused. The alleged diversion has ruffled the feathers of some NGOs, too, with most demanding that the government register an FIR. However, the FCI maintained silence, with its senior officials remaining unavailable for comments.

No clear explanation to fatality surge in Srinagar

"THIS time, there is no lockdown although there are curbs. It may be that more people died this year due to natural causes, suicides etc. We are yet to analyse the data, so it will be difficult for us to be conclusive," they said. In sum, there are more questions than answers.

Srinagar: Let's look at data from the summer capital of J&K. In all, 291 death certificates were issued in Srinagar in April-May 2020, of which seven were Covid fatalities. Assuming a standard rise of 4% in year-on-year deaths, next year's fatality count during the same interval ought to have been 303.

However, the number of death certificates issued in April-May 2021 jumped to 1,340, of which the official Covid count was 299. How does one explain the 738 extra deaths (1,340 - 299 - 303 = 738)?

An official of the Srinagar Municipal Corporation said more death certificates issued in April-May this year does not mean that all of them are residents of Srinagar. Many patients from other districts suffering from different ailments were admitted to Srinagar hospitals and died, he said. But hasn't that been happening for ages? The spurt in non-Covid deaths do raise questions on data discrepancy. There are no clear answers yet.

Criminal case against Italian marines finally ends, says SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday directed the closure of criminal proceedings in India against two Italian marines accused of killing two fishermen off the Kerala coast over nine years ago.

A bench of Justices Indira Banerjee and M R Shah quashed the FIR and proceedings emanating from the case against the two Italian marines. The top court termed the ₹10 crore compensation paid by the Republic of Italy over and above the payment already made as reasonable and adequate. Of the ₹10 crore compensation, ₹4 crore each shall be deposited in the name of heirs of two deceased Kerala fishermen and ₹2 crore shall be given to owner of boat. Now, Italy must immediately start criminal proceedings against the two marines Massimilano Latorre and Salvatore Gironde under its jurisdiction, it said.

The case details, along with evidence, will be provided by the Centre and the Kerala governments to Italy, it said. The order follows the Centre's decision to accept the award of an arbitration tribunal under UNCLOS, which said Italy had the jurisdiction to prosecute the marines.

In February 2012, India had accused the two marines on board the MV Enrica Lexie, an Italian flagged oil tanker, of killing two Indian fishermen who were on a fishing vessel in India's Exclusive Economic Zone.

BJP brass assesses Punjab situation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE BJP brass on Tuesday took stock of the political situation in Punjab. BJP chief J P Nadda and Union Minister for Home Affairs Amit Shah were briefed about the situation in the state by the Punjab core group of the party.

The easing of the Covid-19 restrictions has set off political campaigns in Punjab, with the Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) taking the lead by forging an alliance with BSP for the next year's polls. The BJP in contrast continues to face protests by farmers over the three farm laws. "The prevailing political situation in Punjab is highly adversarial to the BJP. The state unit of the party can get some breather if the farmers withdraw their agitation against the farm laws," said a senior BJP functionary.

While the BJP leadership has been insisting upon the party leaders in Punjab to explain the benefits of the farm laws, the saffron outfit has not made much headway in its outreach to the farmers.

On Tuesday, the BJP leaders against asked the state unit of the party to scale up the new pro-farmer measures, including direct transfer of MSP into the accounts of the farmers in place of the earlier system of payment through Arhaitiyas.

Having been a junior ally of the SAD in Punjab for decades, the BJP is faced with the prospects of fighting it out alone in the state. The BJP brass has begun consultations with the party's key leaders on next year's election, which also includes Punjab. "The BJP will aim to become the third force in the state and gain enough space to become relevant," added the BJP functionary.

The BJP had won three out of the 23 Assembly seats contested in the 2017 state polls in alliance with SAD.

Myanmar province CM seeks refuge

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Guwahati

A chief minister of a province in the coup-hit Myanmar is among the 9,000-odd people who have fled to Mizoram over the past few months. Chief Minister of the country's Chin State, Salai Lian Luai, crossed over the border on Monday night and was taking refuge in the remote Champhai district.

Luai is among over 20 lawmakers from the country taking shelter in the northeastern state. He is a leader of National League of Democracy which Aung San Suu Kyi leads.

The refugees include a large number of security personnel, mostly cops. Earlier, the Mizoram government had urged the Centre to view the influx of the refugees as a humanitarian crisis.

Six Mizoram districts such as Champhai, Siaha, Lawngtlai, Serchhip, Hnahthial and Saitual share 510 of the 1,643 km land border, which India shares with Myanmar. People from Myanmar's Chin community and the Mizos in India belong to the Zo ethnic group and they share the same ancestry. The Chin people are settled in Myanmar's Chin State, which shares a 404 km porous border with Mizoram.

On Monday, more than four months after the military seized power in a coup, former prime minister Aung San Su Kyi faced trial in a Naypyidaw court on five charges, including the illegal possession of walkie-talkies.

'Missing' list of MLC nominees with Guv

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mumbai

The list of 12 names approved by Maharashtra cabinet for appointment to the Legislative Council and sent to Governor Bhagat Singh Koshyari for approval was pending with the Governor himself, reply to a query filed under the Right to Information Act (RTI) has revealed.

In reply to the application he had filed on April 22 seeking information from the governor's secretariat, RTI activist Anil Galgali was informed that the list submitted by the cabinet was not available.

However, during the hearing of the appeal filed by Galgali, he was informed that the list was kept by the governor himself at the Raj Bhavan secretariat. The activist was told that more information about this would be available only after the governor takes a decision on the matter.

The hearing was conducted on June 15 by Prachi Jambhekar, Deputy Secretary to the Governor. "The governor has the complete file, including the list and information will be made available once the decision is taken, Prachi Jambhekar told us. She further said that at present, this matter is sub judice. So, they have to take legal advice before they supply the information," Galgali said.

The MVA government and the governor have been at loggerheads over the appointments of the MLCs with the former accusing Koshyari of sitting on the file. Last month, the Bombay HC had sought a response from the Maharashtra government and Secretary to Governor Bhagat Singh Koshyari regarding the decision on the MLCs.

J&K farmers to get first tranche of Liquid Nano Urea

Farmers of the Union Territory would be the first to get Liquid Nano Urea. The fertiliser is touted to enhance yield and protect crops from seasonal damage, while maintaining the soil quality. About 15,000 bottles of Liquid Nano Urea have been dispatched to J&K from Kalol, Gujarat. Of the 15,000 bottles, 7,500 will be distributed among farmers of Jammu, while the remainder would go to Kashmir. The total consignment is equivalent to 675 metric tonnes of conventional urea. About 70% of the population of J&K is dependent on agriculture for livelihood. Liquid Nano Urea is likely to bring down the cost of farming as one bottle costs 10% lesser than a 45 kg of urea bag. Since Nano Urea does not require subsidy, the government will save about `27,000 crore that can be used to offset the farmers' input cost

Covid-hit domestic workers lost more jobs than others: ILO

GENEVA

THE pandemic has taken a harsh toll on domestic workers who have lost far more jobs than others despite a decade-old international pact guaranteeing their rights, the UN said on Tuesday.

In a fresh report, the International Labour Organization warned that working conditions for many of the world's 75.6 million domestic workers had not improved since the adoption in 2011 of a convention entitling them to the same protections as other workers.

And the situation has been made worse by the Covid-19 pandemic, which hit domestic workers — the majority of whom are women — far harder than those in most other professions. With eight out of 10 domestic workers globally working in the informal sector, many had no labour or social protections to fall back upon when the crisis hit.

"The impact on domestic workers was very much stronger than it was on other parts of the workforce, so that meant that these workers lost their jobs in greater numbers or saw their hours of work reduced to a greater extent than other parts of the workforce," ILO chief Guy Ryder said.

"The crisis has highlighted the urgent need to formalise domestic work to ensure their access to decent work," he said.

At the height of the crisis, job losses among domestic workers ranged from five to 20 in most European countries, while the losses were between 25 and 50% in the Americas. Job losses among other employees were less than 15%.

Since many domestic workers are migrants who rely on their employment for the right to remain in the country they live in, and many are live-in employees, a loss of employment could also mean a loss of their residency permit and lodgings.

"Behind the aggregated numbers, I think there is a deeper human impact which accentuates even more the suffering involved in the labour market impact of the Covid-19 pandemic," Ryder said.

More than three quarters of all domestic workers are women, and the vast majority are employed in two regions: the Asia-Pacific region which is home to about half of the world's domestic workers, and another quarter found in the Americas.

There has been some progress since the adoption of the Domestic Workers Convention, now ratified by 32 countries, with the number of domestic workers who are wholly excluded from the scope of labour laws and regulations cut by 16 percentage points in 10 years. AFP

Ahead of Russia meet, US eases EU trade friction

Joe Biden's move lowers a major point of tension in trans-Atlantic relationship

BRUSSELS

PRESIDENT Joe Biden on Tuesday moved to end a long-running dispute with the European Union over subsidies for aircraft manufacturers, a major breakthrough in the US-EU trade relationship that comes on the eve of his highly anticipated meeting with Russian President Vladimir Putin.

The announcement that the two sides reached resolution in a 17-year dispute over how much of a government subsidy each can provide for its aircraft manufacturing giant — Boeing in the United States and Airbus in the EU — came as Biden met with European Council President Charles Michel and European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen.

With the move, Biden eases a major point of tension in the trans-Atlantic relationship at a moment he's seeking to marshal widespread European support for his efforts to counter Russia prior to his Wednesday meeting in Geneva with Putin.

US Trade Representative Katherine Tai told reporters that the agreement calls for a five-year suspension of the aircraft tariffs, and stressed that it was time to put aside the fight and focus on China's economic assertiveness.

"Today's announcement resolves a long-standing trade irritant in the US-Europe relationship. Instead of fighting with one of our closest allies, we are finally coming together against a common threat," Tai said.

"We agreed to work together to challenge and counter China's non-market practices in this sector in specific ways that reflect our standards for fair competition." She added that the tariffs could be reimplemented if the US determines US companies are not able to "compete fairly" with the EU's. The tariffs had been temporarily suspended on March 11 for four months, and the new agreement will officially go into effect on July 11.

To be certain, the US-EU relationship faces other trade-related friction. The continent's leaders are becoming impatient that Biden has not yet addressed Donald Trump's 2018 decision to impose import taxes on foreign steel and aluminum. AP

End to 17-yr dispute

US and EU reached a 5-year deal to end dispute over subsidies to rival plane makers Boeing and Airbus and phase out billions of dollars in punitive tariffs

This really opens a new chapter in our relationship because we move from litigation to cooperation on aircraft — after 17 years of dispute

Ursula von der Leyen, EU Commission Prez

Tit-for-tat diplomacy

US imposed $7.5 billion in tariffs on European exports in 2019 and EU retaliated last November with up to $4 billion in punitive duties. In March, the two sides agreed to suspend the tariffs. The new agreement will officially go into effect on July 11.

Death toll in gas explosion rises to 25

Beijing: The death toll from a powerful gas explosion in central China's Hubei province has more than doubled to 25, according to the local authorities. The explosion ripped through a residential neighbourhood in Zhangwan district of Shiyan city on Sunday, killing at least 12 people and trapping a large number of people under the rubble of their homes. The blast rocked a two-story trade market building in a residential community. China's state-run Xinhua news agency reported on late Monday night that the death toll has risen to 25. Rescue and debris cleaning are still under way, the information office of the provincial government of Hubei said A team has been set up to investigate the blast, and Hubei will launch a province-wide blanket inspection to root out potential work safety hazards, the officer said. Five polio vaccinators shot dead in 'coordinated attacks'

Jalalabad: At least five polio workers were shot dead in eastern Afghanistan Tuesday, officials said, in the latest attack on vaccinators. The workers were gunned down in three separate locations within hours in a "coordinated attack", Nangarhar provincial police spokesman Farid Khan said. "This is the work of the Taliban, targeting health workers to deprive people of polio vaccines," he said. Health ministry spokesman Osman Taheri confirmed the attacks. The Taliban denied responsibility. AFP

'Int'l court probe of drug killings is insulting'

Manila: Philippine President Rodrigo Duterte will never cooperate with a possible International Criminal Court investigation into the thousands of killings under his anti-drugs crackdown, his spokesman said Tuesday, calling an international inquiry insulting to the country's justice system. But human rights activists welcomed the possible investigation as a long-awaited step toward justice and accountability. Outgoing ICC chief prosecutor Fatou Bensouda said Monday that a preliminary examination found reason to believe crimes against humanity had been committed during Duterte's crackdown on drugs between July 1, 2016, and March 16, 2019. The dates cover the period between when Duterte launched his crackdown shortly after winning a six-year presidential term. AP

Cashier fatally shot after argument over face mask

DECATUR, ATLANTA

A GROCERY store cashier in the Atlanta area was killed and two other people were wounded in a shooting that followed an argument over wearing face masks in the supermarket, authorities said.

DeKalb County Sheriff Melody Maddox on Monday said the shooting occurred inside the Big Bear Supermarket at South DeKalb Mall in Decatur while several people were inside the business. She said a female cashier was killed when a man opened fire.

"There was some confrontation, argument, I'm not sure exactly what, in reference to the wearing of masks, at which time the subject pulled out a weapon and shot the cashier," Maddox said at a news conference. Maddox said she did not know the details of the argument.

A reserve deputy, who was employed part-time for security with the store, returned fire and shot the subject, the sheriff said. The deputy and the suspected shooter were injured, she added.

The deputy is a member of a reserve unit of deputies not actively working for a law enforcement agency but still a certified law enforcement officer. Such deputies can work with a sheriff's office on a volunteer basis and can work part time security jobs, the sheriff's department said. Maddox said the deputy's response might have kept other people from being hurt.

Maddox said the deputy was hit twice by gunfire but was wearing a bulletproof vest and was taken to a medical center where he was in stable condition. The suspect, who was struck a couple of times, was taken to a hospital, Maddox said. AP

Emails reveal Trump pressured Justice Dept

WASHINGTON

DURING the last weeks of his presidency, Donald Trump and his allies pressured the Justice Department to investigate unsubstantiated claims of widespread 2020 election fraud, despite his former attorney general declaring there was no evidence of it, newly released emails show.

The emails, released on Tuesday by the House Oversight Committee, reveal in new detail how Trump, his White House chief of staff and other allies pressured members of the US government to challenge the 2020 election over false claims, even though officials at Homeland Security and Justice, as well as Republican election leaders across the country, repeatedly said there had been no pervasive fraud.

Former Attorney General William Barr, a longtime Trump loyalist, was among those who said there was no evidence of it.

The emails also show the extent to which Trump worked to enlist then-acting Attorney General Jeffrey Rosen in his campaign's failing legal efforts to challenge the election result, including suggesting filing a brief with the U.S. Supreme Court.

The ones sent to Rosen include debunked conspiracy theories and false information about voter fraud.

IKEA FINED $1.2M OVER SPYING CAMPAIGN IN FRANCE

VERSAILLES

A FRENCH court ordered home furnishings giant Ikea to pay more than 1 million euros ($1.2 million) in fines and damages Tuesday over a campaign to spy on union representatives, employees and some unhappy customers in France.

Two former Ikea France executives were convicted and fined over the scheme and given suspended prison sentences. Among the other 13 defendants in the high-profile trial, some were acquitted and others given suspended sentences. Abel Amara, a former Ikea employee who helped expose the wrongdoing, called the ruling "a big step in defense of the citizen....It makes me glad that there is justice in France."

The panel of judges at the Versailles court found that Ikea's French subsidiary used espionage to sift out troublemakers in the ranks and profile squabbling customers between 2009 and 2012. Trade unions accused Ikea France of collecting personal data by fraudulent means, notably via illegally obtained police files, and illicitly disclosing personal information.

Lawyers for Ikea France denied that the company had any strategy of 'generalised espionage.' A lawyer for the unions, Solene Debarre, expressed hope that the verdict would "make some companies tremble."

"One million euros isn't much for Ikea, but it's a symbol," Debarre said.

Exports up 69% in May, trade deficit widens

Steady exports growth suggests India may be well poised to benefit from recovering demand in advanced economies

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

INDIA's merchandise exports rose 69.35 per cent in May to $32.27 billion compared to a low base of $19.05 billion during May 2020 driven by healthy growth in sectors such as engineering, petroleum products and gems and jewellery, according to revised data released on Tuesday by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry. When compared month-on-month, exports grew 5.4 per cent to 32.3 billion in May compared to $30.6 billion in April.

Non-petroleum and non-gems and jewellery exports in May were at $24 billion, as against $16.36 billion in May 2020, registering a positive growth of 46.50 per cent. In April, the export value of these items stood at $23.6 billion. The data showed that 25 out of 30 major product groups of exports have either shown a very high growth or were in positive territory, despite the second wave of Covid-led disruptions.

There was negative growth in exports of fruits & vegetables basket, which was down 7.1 per cent, followed by oil seeds (-7.09 per cent), drugs and pharmaceuticals (- 5.36 per cent), tea (- 3.4 per cent) and spices (-0.33 per cent).

Higher imports, meanwhile, pushed the fiscal deficit to $6.28 billion, up by 99.61 per cent against the same month last year. Imports grew 73.64 per cent to $38.55 billion in May, up from $222 billion in the same month last year. Oil imports during the month were $ 9.45 billion, 171.1 per cent higher against $3.49 billion in May 2020. As compared to May 2019, oil imports were 24.94 per cent lower. Non-oil imports were estimated at $ 29.10 billion during the month under review, up 55.48 per cent compared to $18.71 billion last year.

According to Federation of Indian Export Organisations President Sharad Kumar Saraf, exports continue to perform impressively for the third month in a row on the back of good order booking and gradual opening of global markets.

The steady exports over April-May suggests that India may be well poised to benefit from recovering demand in the advanced economies, said Aditi Nayar, Chief Economist, Icra.

SEC BANS NFTS IN NEW REGULATION FOR CRYPTO MARKET

The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) in Thailand issued fresh guidelines preventing cryptocurrency exchanges from supporting four digital tokens. The rules impose a complete ban on meme-based tokens and the Non-Fungible Tokens (NFTs), prohibit fan-based tokens and exchange-issued tokens in the country. SEC also asked exchanges to comply with the new rules issuing any new tokens. In case exchanges do not follow the rules, SEC will take strict action and the tokens will be delisted. Exchanges have 30 days to upgrade to the new rules, which also tightened norms for independent traders and crypto investors. They should now have a minimum annual income of about $32,000 to invest in cryptocurrency and each investor must complete a trading training course and clear an exam to be eligible to invest in cryptocurrencies.

TAIWAN

CENTRAL BANK LIKELY TO HOLD RATES

Taiwan's central bank will likely keep its policy rate steady at a record low this week as the economy booms on global tech demand fuelled by the work-from-home trend, despite a spike in Covid-19 cases at home, a Reuters poll showed. The central bank is seen leaving the benchmark discount rate unchanged at 1.125 per cent on Thursday at its quarterly meeting, after holding fire at its past four meetings. It last cut the rate in March, 2020. Taiwan's export-reliant economy has been supported by global demand for tech products from an increasing number of people working and studying from home during the Covid-19 pandemic. Economic growth in Q1 rose 8.92 per cent from a year earlier, the strongest quarterly growth in over a decade. The central bank will also give its own revised growth forecast, having predicted a 4.53 per cent expansion at its last quarterly meeting in March, with exports performing strongly.

SRI LANKA

CENTRAL BANK ADVISED TREASURY TO HIKE FUEL PRICES

Energy Minister Udaya Gammanpila revealed that the June 9 hike on fuel prices was based on the written advice from the country's central bank on May 31. Subsequently, a cost of living committee comprising several ministers agreed to increase prices after Prime Minister Mahinda Rajapaksa gave written instructions for the raise. The Finance Ministry then approved the move under the Ceylon Petroleum Corporation Act, he explained amid demands of his resignation by none other than the ruling Sri Lanka Podujana Party Secretary. According to him, the Ceylon Petroleum Corporation's debt of 600 billion rupees could risk a collapse of the entire banking system. The company also had about 390 billion rupees in accumulated losses. In 2018, it was forced to borrow dollars despite market pricing oil through a formula where rupee collected by the utility was kept in repo deals with state banks and loaned to third parties to import non-oil goods.

RBI bars DHFL from accepting deposits under Piramal Group

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

THE Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has re-classified Dewan Housing Finance (DHFL) as a non-deposit taking housing finance company before approving the Piramal group's bid to take over the stressed company, according to a NCLT Mumbai order. Unlike DHFL, which accepts public deposits, acquirer Piramal Capital & Housing Finance Limited (PCHFL) is a non-deposit taking company. Sources say that Piramals wanted to convert PCHFL into a deposit-taking NBFC after acquiring DHFL but the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has turned down that request.

The changes were made in February 2021, after the RBI gave a non-objection to the January 25, 2021 application by R Subramaniakumar, the DHFL administrator, citing Rule 5 of its FSP (financial services providers) Rules. "Pursuant to the FSP Rules, the RBI communicated its 'no objection' on February 16, 2021 for change in control/ownership/management in DHFL in terms of Rule 5(d)(iii) of the FSP Rules and also in terms of para 3 of NHB circular — housing finance companies — approval of acquisition or transfer of control Directions, 2016, subject to (inter alia) the condition that the deposit-taking status of DHFL will be revoked and merged entity of DHFL and Piramal Capital shall function as a non-deposit taking housing finance company," says the 86-page NCLT order.

In the concluding part of the order, the bench reiterates that the resolution is subject to the fact that RBI's non-objection, which is based on the condition that "the status of the corporate debtor (DHFL) is changed from a deposit-taking housing finance company to a non-deposit-taking company". It can be noted that DHFL became the first financial services entity to be referred to the NCLT for bankruptcy. (With PTI inputs)

Adani stocks remain under pressure

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

ADANI stocks continued to remain under pressure even after the Group and the National Securities and Depository Ltd (NSDL) clarified that the three Foreign Portfolio Investment (FPI) accounts which have significant stake in four Gautam Adani-led firms remain active. On Tuesday, the shares of Adani Transmission (ATL), Adani Power (APL) and Adani Total Gas (ATGL) closed at the five per cent lower circuit while Adani Ports and Special Economic Zones (APSEZ), which hit an intra-day high of ₹802.20, settled at ₹757.20, down 1.5 per cent from the previous day closing on BSE. ATL ended Tuesday trading session at ₹1441.40, ATGL at ₹1467.35 and APL at ₹133.90 on BSE.

Flagship company Adani Enterprises (AEL) and Adani Green Energy (AGEL), however, were the only two group stocks that ended in green. While AEL closed 1.6 per cent higher at ₹1,525.80, AGEL ended the day at ₹1208.75, up 2.8 per cent.

According to an analyst at a leading brokerage firm, there is still some amount of confusion among retail investors on the status of three Mauritius based Investment accounts. "It is a known fact that Mauritius is a tax haven and firms operating from there lack transparency. That said, Adani stocks are still overvalued and this controversy might have triggered a correction," the analyst said.

Global research firm Citi, however, maintained a buy rating on APSEZ, with a target of ₹1,000 per share. Citi said that irrespective of the news reports, the business logic behind the company is solid and it doesn't see why the its activities will be affected. It added that the company is well-positioned to grow its already high market share. Negative news flow around Adani Ports' Group companies is a sentiment dampener but is less likely to have any major impact on the companies' business prospects, said the brokerage. Shares of Adani Enterprises had crashed 25 per cent on June 14 following reports of NSDL freezing demat accounts of three FPIs, eroding India's second richest person Gautam Adani's wealth by $4-5 billion.

Covid 2.0 blues: Retail sales in May only 21% of pre-pandemic levels

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

STRINGENT lockdowns across states have significantly hit the country's retail businesses, which saw sales drop 79 per cent in May as against pre-Covid levels of 2019, according to estimates by the Retailers' Association of India (RAI).

In terms of retail categories, beauty, wellness and personal care saw the steepest decline at 87 per cent, followed by footwear which fell 86 per cent last month as against May 2019. the The quick service restaurants witnessed a dip of 70 per cent, while the Food and grocery, segment was relatively better placed with a decline of 34 per cent as compared to May 2019.

RAI compared sales figures to those of May 19, as India was still under a nationwide lockdown during the same time last year. Region-wise, the survey showed that sales in southern India were down 73 per cent in May 2021 as compared to May 2019, while the decline in sales was the steepest in West and North, falling 83 per cent. Eastern region saw sales decline by 75 per cent.

"Retailers are looking forward to some improvement in the month of June with gradual unlocking. However, the retail industry needs the collective support of various government bodies to tide over the present situation," RAI CEO Kumar Rajagopalan said. The optimism comes as many of the states have now slowly begun easing restrictions in a calibarated manner.

With consumption declining steadily since the past year following Covid-led lockdowns, MSME-dominated retail businesses have been under tremendous financial strain on various fronts, including rentals, salaries, electricity charges, and various taxes and licence fees, among other issues. Many establishments were also forced to close down, even as some firms have taken the mergers and acquisition route for a speedy recovery.

EaseMyTrip reports 8-fold increase in Q4 profit at ₹30.5 cr on lower expenses

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

NEWLY-listed online travel portal Easy Trip Planners Ltd (EaseMyTrip) posted a net profit of ₹30.5 crore in the fourth quarter of FY21 as against a profit of ₹3.6 crore in the previous fiscal driven by increase in margin and commissions, and reduction in operational expenses.

The Delhi-based company doubled its profit for FY20-21 at ₹61.4 crore as against a net profit of ₹33 crore in FY19-20, despite its gross booking revenue falling by nearly 50 per cent to ₹2,128 crore.

The sharp rise in net profit comes at a time when the tourism and hospitality sector has been severely affected by Covid-19 pandemic and the resultant disruptions. EaseMyTrip's rival MakeMyTrip had reported a $56 million loss during FY21. The company claims to have reduced its total expenditure from ₹135 crore in financial year 2019-20 to ₹67 crore in fiscal 2020-21.

"FY20-21 was a year where the first two quarters were basically a washout for the industry due to the lockdown," said Prashant Pitti, Co-Founder and Executive Director.

"We anticipate a huge pent up demand for the travel and tourism sector post the vaccination drive, giving us strong revenue visibility for years to come," he added.

FinMin asks Infosys to fix tech bugs by June 30

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

FACED with widespread criticism over tech glitches in the new Income Tax (I-T) e-filing portal, the Finance Ministry has asked the developer of the portal — Infosys — to fix the bugs by June 30. Senior officials of the ministry will also hold a meeting with Infosys representatives on June 22 to discuss the issue. Other stakeholders, including Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI), auditors, consultants and taxpayers will also be a part of the interaction.

"Representatives from Infosys team will be present to answer queries, clarify issues and receive inputs on the working of the portal, to remove glitches and sort out issues faced by the taxpayers," the finance ministry said in a statement on Tuesday.

Software major Infosys was in 2019 awarded a contract to develop the next-generation I-T filing system to reduce processing time for returns from 63 days to one day and expedite refunds. The much-advertised new portal was designed by Infosys at a cost of over ₹6,000 crore. Ever since its launch on June 7, however, the new e-filing portal has been experiencing numerous technical glitches. Despite a 1,000-page note on how to use the new portal effectively, both taxpayers and tax professionals have pointed out various difficulties in performing different tasks on the website.

Users have complained that the website is working very slowly and even small things like updating of profile, changing of passwords are taking a lot of time. Some users are finding it difficult to file TDS returns, while newly incorporated entities are unable to register. Some have pointed out that the 'forgot password' option is not working. According to tax professionals, the entire section for 'e-proceedings' under the tab 'pending actions' is still not live. The glitches forced the I-T department to defer the compliances dates with regards to foreign remittances for submission of Form 15CA and 15CB.

'Froth' building up in broader market remains an area of concern, warn experts

V K Vijayakumar, chief investment strategist at Geojit Financial Services, points out that the Nifty small-cap index trading at a premium to Nifty reflects the 'irrational exuberance' of retail investors.

In 2020-21, foreign institutional investors (FIIs) pumped in ₹2.74 lakh crore into the Indian equity markets, the highest ever in a financial year. This was mainly on account of liquidity infused in the system by countries across the globe to support their respective economies. Retail investors also participated in the bull run with over ₹4 lakh crore being funnelled into equities through mutual funds alone.

Deepak Jasani, head of retail research, HDFC Securities, says: "A lot of companies have seen an expansion in their P/E ratios, anticipating a rise in their earnings. In many cases, the PEs seem to be all-time highs. However, in case of a sharp sell-off in the markets, a lot of these stocks could also bear the brunt and see a derating of their P/Es." Some experts believe the distress caused by Covid-19 may catch up with the market sooner or later.

Stick to investment fundamentals

Experts also say that no matter how the equity markets are behaving, retail investors should stick to basic tenets of investments — diversification, asset allocation, rebalancing of portfolios. A sharp correction, experts say, is 'normal' in equity investing.

Ajay Shah, an economist and a former professor at National Institute of Public Finance and Policy, says the difficulties of middle class are likely to impact the market with a lag.

Experts are expecting a 10-15 per cent correction in the near term as the valuations are getting a little stretched.

Given this situation, how should retail investors wade in the market? Nilesh Shah, CEO, Kotak Mutual Fund, says this is the market where one needs to invest with long-term view and not short-term view, while advising against going overweight on equities. Hemang Jani, head of equity strategy, broking & distribution, Motilal Oswal Financial Services, however, cautions retail investors against booking profit and sitting on cash because "it may turn out that one may miss the bigger rally while awaiting for the correction to take place."

New Delhi: Twitter on Tuesday said it has appointed an interim Chief Compliance Officer and the details of the official will be shared directly with the IT Ministry soon. Facebook-ISPs ink pacts for faster internet access

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU

SOCIAL media giant Facebook said on Tuesday that it has partnered with two Internet Service Providers (ISP) — De-voice and Net Plus — in order to expand the outreach of affordable internet in India. The ISPs will be using Facebook Connectivity's Express Wi-Fi platform to launch public Wi-Fi hotspots across Bangalore and many other cities of Punjab to provide people with fast, affordable, and reliable internet over Wi-Fi.

Facebook said that amid the Covid-19 crisis, its software platform Express Wi-Fi was widely used with network providers to disseminate vital information to smaller communities. Express Wi-Fi is a software platform developed by Facebook Connectivity that enables mobile operators, satellite operators, and internet service providers to build, grow, and monetize their Wi-Fi businesses in a sustainable and scalable way, while providing their customers with a faster, higher-quality and more affordable internet.

D-Vois, which operates its broadband services under brand ION, has signed a partnership with Facebook in Bangalore, where it has deployed approximately 1,000 access points. Netplus Broadband, the internet arm of Fastway Group, offers high-speed internet to small and medium businesses, among others in Punjab and some other cities.

How NZ with limited resources made final

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

NOTHING has come easy for the New Zealand men's cricket side. It took them 26 years for their first Test win, 39 years for their first series win and 40 years to reach a World Cup final. At the inaugural edition of the ICC World Test Championship, they are in the final, fighting against all odds.

Fighting disparity is part of the Black Caps' DNA. In a country where the All Blacks remain the toast of the nation. After the Richard Hadlee and Martin Crowe era, the sport even struggled for relevance. That changed after skipper Brendon McCullum and coach Mike Hesson fashioned a side in their own image at the 2015 World Cup. Since then, Kane Williamson and head coach Gary Stead have built on it. They are by no means blessed, both in terms of of talent pool or money. New Zealand Cricket's (NZC) annual revenue is only ₹279 crores. Their domestic cricket comprises of just six teams with no more than 96 players to choose from. Compare that to India, who have 608 players to choose from 38 domestic teams. Yet, they have not only managed to punch above their weight, they do so consistently.

Since 2016/17, NZC, to address their shortcomings, have depended on a strong A-team culture like India. While their premier competition Plunket Shield may not bridge the gap between domestic and international cricket, NZC have ensured the best talents in the country get as many exposure trips as possible. In the last five years, New Zealand A has played a strong India A side thrice (two home and one away) apart from facing England and Australia.

Sriram Krishnamurthy, a former First Division player in the TNCA, now the batting coach of the Northern Districts side that boasts of Williamson, BJ Watling, Trent Boult among others, feels the current crop is the best New Zeland has ever had. "Right through the NZC set-up, there is an acknowledgment that the Plunket Shield has never been more competent. Maybe it is a once-in-a-generation thing, but there is right mixture of talent. It is why NZC has ensured these guys get A tour programmes. It has helped them evolve as players," the 35-year-old said.

The NZC has ensured that the six domestic teams are aligned to one philosophy, which is to make the Black Caps stronger and stronger. Each winter, the NZC's High-Performance Unit, headed by former off-spinner Paul Wiseman, picks a pool of 15-16 players from the domestic circuit. These players get to train in Lincoln, Canterbury. "Although winning domestic titles is important for all the six teams, we don't stop at that. Our collective goal is to make Black Caps stronger. Since we have only 96 players, you don't see a talent that goes unnoticed. In the winter, once these players are picked, we work on taking them to next level. All the six coaches are involved in these programmes and our roles are not just restricted to our teams alone," Sriram said. Their recent performances has ensured cricket is back as a popular sport.

SL, Maldives, B'desh set for national athletics

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

THE Athletics Federation of India is all set to host the last two competitions before the Olympic qualification cycle ends on June 29. Though 12 athletes have already qualified for the Tokyo 2020 Olympics, some like Tajinder Pal Singh Toor, the 4x400m relay teams (men & women) are on verge of qualification but need to consolidate their position on the Road to Tokyo list.

The Indian Grand Prix 4 on June 21 and the inter-state athletics nationals in Patiala from June 25 to 29 are expected to have visitors from three neighbouring countries. According to AFI president Adille Sumariwalla, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh and Maldives have accepted their invitation and with the help of Ministry of External Affairs and the Sports Ministry, the teams are expected to participate in the nationals. If logistics permit, the teams might even participate at the IGP 4 on June 21. However, because time is short, it might be difficult. For relay teams, international teams are necessary to qualify.

"Three teams have accepted invitation and would be participating during the national championships," said the AFI chief. He also said that the athletes would be in a bubble from the time they land in the airport and until they participate. The athletes from the three nations are expected to participate in 4x100m (women), 4x400m (men and women) relays but they can enter their names in other competitions as well. The AFI is confident 4x100m women's team would qualify. Nigeria is 16th on Road to Tokyo with 43.05s and India are 22nd with 43.81s. The AFI president has also sounded a warning to those athletes who have qualified for the Olympics or on verge of qualification to not miss the national competitions without solid reasons. He said that if someone drops out without taking prior permission of the chief national coach, strict action would be taken. Should an athlete chose to skip the event as part of the strategy drawn up by the coaches, the AFI won't stand their way. But AFI and the coaches must be convinced with reasons. "Or else we might even not take them to the Olympics. The events will be conducted in a safe environment and everyone must compete," he said.

The federation has assured that the safety of the athletes will not be compromised, especially of those who have already qualified or likely to qualify and are training in a secured environment in Patiala.

RONALDOES IT

Overtakes Platini's championships record as Portugal beat Hungary

AGENCIES @Budapest

CRISTIANO Ronaldo became the all-time top scorer in the history of the European Championship with a late penalty in Portugal's opening Euro 2020 game against Hungary in Budapest on Tuesday.

RESULTS
Monday: Spain 0-0 Sweden
Tuesday: Portugal 3-0 Hungary

Ronaldo's strike, which put the title holders 2-0 up with three minutes left, was his 10th in the European Championship finals, spread across five tournaments going back to 2004. Ronaldo then added another goal in stoppage time, his 11th Euros strike securing a 3-0 win in the Group F match. He beats the previous mark of nine set by Michel Platini.

SPAIN PASS AND FAIL

Group A: Italy vs Switzerland | Stadio Olimpico | 12:30 AM

The Azzurris can seal their round of 16 berth with a good result over Switzerland. For a team, which is on an 28-game unbeaten streak, Mancini's men should not have much problem in getting the job done with the likes of Ciro Immobile and Lorenzo Insigne in their attacking ranks. As for Switzerland, even a draw will prove to be a good result.

Key players: Marco Verratti (Italy), Xherdan Shaqiri (Switzerland)

WEDNESDAY: BIG NIGHT FOR ITALY & FINLAND

Group B: Finland vs Russia | Krestovsky Stadium | 6.30 PM

Finland's victory over Denmark took a backseat on a day when Christian Eriksen collapsed on the pitch and was rushed to hospital. The Finns, who need a win to secure a place in the last 16, will be confident when they face Russia. The latter will be looking to get things on track after their 0-3 loss to Belgium.

Key players: Teemo Pukki (Finland), Artem Dzyuba (Russia)

Group A: Turkey vs Wales | Olympic Stadium | 9:30 PM

Turkey did not play anywhere close to their best against Italy, who trounced them 0-3. The youthful side will be eager to turn the tables and be more dangerous on the ball against Wales, who drew with Switzerland. Gareth Bale and co have to deliver as they face Italy in their last match.

Key players: Burak Yilmaz (Turkey), Gareth Bale (Wales)

Argentina feel Chile after draw

ASSOCIATED PRESS @Rio de Janeiro

LIONEL Messi scored a stunning free kick, repeatedly dribbled through the Chilean defense and created opportunities for his Argentina teammates. Despite Messi's performance, Argentina was held 1-1 by Chile in its Copa America opener.

The game was also marked by a tribute to Argentine football great Diego Maradona. Messi might have one of his final chances of winning a title with Argentina at the Copa America.

Disciplined mindset is key: Mithali

VIVEK KRISHNAN @Chennai

FOR the past few days, the Indian women's team has training in full whites rather than in usual training gear. The idea, suggested by coach Ramesh Powar, is to ensure that they don't feel overawed when they don the whites and step onto the field in Bristol on Wednesday for their one-off Test against England. It illustrates how rare a Test match is for women's team.

As has been well-documented of late, Mithali & Co are playing their first Test in seven years. Their last outing in the Test format came against South Africa in Mysuru in November 2014 – which India won convincingly – but it is their victory against England in Wormsley in August that year that they can take a lot of heart from. Seven members of the playing XI from that Test are part of this squad.

"There were 4-5 training sessions where we trained in the whites so that it doesn't feel alien for the girls..." Mithali said during a pre-match interaction.

The big challenge for women will be adjusting to red ball. "We tried to get many sessions as we can for both batters and bowlers to face red ball and get used to movement. At the end, what matters is how disciplined you can be in your mindset," she said.

Robotic ship set to retrace 400-year-old Atlantic trip

Sophisticated AI guides the trimaran, which won't have human crew; it may be first of a new generation of exploratory vessels on oceans

Technicians lower the Mayflower ship into the water at its launch site for its first outing on water after being built in Turnchapel, Plymouth, in England | AP

TECHNOLOGY

FOUR centuries and one year after the Mayflower departed from Plymouth, England, on a historic sea journey to America, another trailblazing vessel with the same name has set off to retrace the voyage.

This Mayflower, though, is a sleek, modern robotic ship that is carrying no human crew or passengers. It's being piloted by sophisticated artificial intelligence technology for a trans-Atlantic crossing that could take up to three weeks, in a project aimed at revolutionising marine research.

IBM, which built the ship with nonprofit marine research organization ProMare, confirmed the Mayflower Autonomous Ship began its trip early on Tuesday.

Charting the path of its 1620 namesake, the Mayflower is set to land at Provincetown on Cape Cod before making its way to Plymouth, Massachusetts. If successful, it would be the largest autonomous vessel to cross the Atlantic.

India's contribution

A variety of technology and service providers have contributed to the project with hundreds of individuals involved from nations including India, Switzerland and the United States, Brett Phaneuf, cofounder of the charity ProMare and the mastermind behind the Mayflower project, told AFP earlier this year. The global effort lowered the ship's cost by 10 fold.

The new Mayflower's journey was originally scheduled for last year, part of 400th anniversary commemorations of the original ship's voyage carrying Pilgrim settlers to New England. Those commemorations were set to involve the British, Americans, Dutch — and the Wampanoag people on whose territory the settlers landed, and who had been marginalized on past anniversaries.

The Mayflower project aims to usher in a new age for automated research ships. Its designers hope it will be the first in a new generation of high-tech vessels that can explore ocean regions that are too difficult or dangerous for people to go to.

The 50-foot (15-meter) trimaran, propelled by a solar-powered hybrid electric motor, bristles with artificial intelligence-powered cameras and dozens of onboard sensors that will collect data on ocean acidification, microplastics and marine mammal conservation.

An electronic tongue?

Its launch has been delayed by the coronavirus pandemic, and more recently, bad weather throughout May, IBM spokesman Jonathan Batty said.

But Batty said the delay allowed for the fitting of a unique feature on the ship: an electric "tongue" that can provide instant analysis of the ocean's chemistry, called Hypertaste.

"It's a brand new piece of equipment that's never been created before," Batty said.

The cutting-edge, $1.3 million ship could take up to three weeks to voyage across the North Atlantic, if forecasts for optimal weather hold up. The ship is also carrying mementos from people at either end of the journey, such as rocks, personal photos, and books. People can follow its journey online.

The non-profit venture will offer the data gathered by the project free of charge. The information could be of particular use to the future of commercial shipping.

Untreated sewage fouls India's rivers

Our cities and towns release billions of litres of sewage every day directly into rivers and lakes, as most of the wastewater sludge is going untreated. Some rivers have been polluted so much that their names are now synonymous with sewage in their regions. The rapid urbanisation that India has been witnessing in the past several decades has worsened the problem, spelling disaster for our shrinking sources of drinking water. Here's a look at what government statistics say

The map shows the latest available state-wise data on how much sewage is generated in India's urban centres and how much of it is treated. It also indicates the level of water pollution in each state (from a 2018 CPCB report), which could be due to industrial waste as well as household waste

Pangolin defender awarded Green Nobel

ENVIRONMENT

A Vietnamese conservationist working to save pangolins from the devastating multi-billion-dollar wildlife trade won a prestigious award Tuesday for his role in rescuing over a thousand of one of the world's most endangered creatures.

Highly prized in China and southeast Asia for their flesh, pangolins are seen as a delicacy for the mistaken belief that they can cure anything from impotence to cancer.

Nguyen Van Thai, director of Save Vietnam's Wildlife (SVW), has been at the forefront of efforts to raise the alarm internationally about the serious problems Vietnam faces as a major hub for wildlife trafficking.

He was awarded the Goldman Environmental Prize -- known colloquially as the "Green Nobel" -- which honours grassroots environmental leaders who have made "sustained and significant efforts" to protect and enhance the natural world.

Pangolins -- often described as "scaly anteaters" -- are defenceless in the wild, curling up into a ball when they are frightened, allowing poachers to easily gather them up.

AstraZeneca hits snag with Covid treatment

MEDICINE

LONDON: Pharmaceutical giant AstraZeneca on Tuesday revealed it had hit a setback in trials of a treatment for Covid-19 symptoms.

The drug, made from a combination of two antibodies, failed its main goal to treat symptoms in exposed patients, the company said in a statement.

The treatment has been undergoing phase 3 or final-stage clinical trials to assess its safety and efficacy.

AstraZeneca said that 1,121 unvaccinated adults had been exposed to an infected person as part of the trial. Treatment AZD7442 reduced the risk of developing symptoms by only 33% – which was "not statistically significant", it added. The company is nevertheless continuing trials to assess whether the drug can prevent Covid or treat more severe symptoms.

The US government has funded the development of AZD7442 and has agreements to receive 700,000 doses.

Meanwhile, AstraZeneca's Covid vaccine, which was developed with the University of Oxford, faced fresh safety doubts. The jab has been suspended in several European countries over reports of rare blood clots.

A top official in the European Medicines Agency was on Sunday reported as having suggested that it might be worth abandoning AstraZeneca's vaccine if alternatives were available.

But the EMA said the body's head of vaccine strategy, Marco Cavaleri, had been misrepresented, and that he believed its benefits outweigh its risks.

"The decision on its use in different populations and ages is the prerogative of the EU Member States, based on specific factors such as virus circulation and vaccine availability," a spokeswoman said.

A study from British health authorities published on Monday found that two doses of AstraZeneca/Oxford or rival Pfizer/BioNTech vaccines stopped the need for in-patient treatment in more than 90% of cases of the Delta variant.

The UK government on Monday announced a four-week delay to the full lifting of lockdown in England.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Covid was in US in Dec 2019

RESEARCH

A new analysis of blood samples from 24,000 Americans taken early last year is the latest and largest study to suggest that the new coronavirus popped up in the U.S. in December 2019 — weeks before cases were first recognized by health officials. The analysis is not definitive, and some experts remain skeptical, but federal health officials are increasingly accepting a timeline in which small numbers of COVID-19 infections may have occurred in the U.S. before the world ever became aware of a dangerous new virus erupting in China. "The studies are pretty consistent," said Natalie Thornburg of the CDC. "There was probably very rare and sporadic cases here earlier than we were aware of. But it was not widespread..."

Oman reports fungus cases

HEALTH

Oman announced on Tuesday that its doctors have detected a potentially fatal fungal infection afflicting some coronavirus patients, the first such known cases on the Arabian Peninsula as the sultanate faces a surge in COVID-19 infections that has swamped its hospitals. The country's Health Ministry reported that three COVID-19 patients in Oman have become infected with mucormycosis, a life-threatening condition commonly known as "black fungus," which has spread quickly among virus patients in hard-hit India. It wasn't immediately clear what condition the three patients were in. The disease's sudden increase has stirred fears among doctors around the world.

UNINTENDED CONSEQUENCES

Crayfish take more risks after exposure to antidepressants

RESEARCH

DUBAI: Crayfish exposed to antidepressants via contaminated water behave more "boldly," emerging from hiding more quickly and spending longer looking for food, a study said Tuesday. The paper, published in the journal Ecosphere, highlights the unintended impacts human medicines can have in aquatic environments, as they alter food web dynamics and ecosystem processes.

"Our study is the first to look at how crayfish respond when exposed to antidepressants at levels typically found in the streams and ponds where they live," said lead author Alexander "AJ" Reisinger of the University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences.

Antidepressants that are flushed directly or excreted in trace amounts eventually end up in the environment, either through leaky septic systems or through water treatment plants not designed to filter them out.

"Because they live in the water, animals like crayfish are regularly exposed to trace amounts of these drugs. We wanted to know how that might be affecting them," added Reisinger. The team examined the impact of selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors (SSRIs), a class of antidepressants that work by increasing levels of the "feel good" chemical serotonin in the brain. Commonly prescribed SSRIs include fluoxetine, which goes by the trade name Prozac, and citalopram, also known as Celexa.

The researchers recreated the freshwater crustaceans' natural environment in a lab where some were exposed to environmentally realistic levels of antidepressant for two weeks, while a control group was not exposed.

The crayfish were placed in a shelter at the entrance to a Y-shaped maze, which has a short entrance that branches into two lanes. One lane emitted chemical cues for food while the other signaled the presence of another crayfish. The crayfish that were exposed to antidepressants emerged from their shelters earlier and spent a longer time looking for food, but they avoided the side of the maze signaling another crayfish, indicating they weren't looking for confrontation.

The altered behavior could expose the crayfish, also known as crawdads in Louisiana where they are a staple in local cuisine, to increased risk of predators, which include eels and turtles as well as mammals and birds.

It might also impact the entire aquatic ecosystem as crayfish eat algae and other organic matter that impact the recycling of nutrients -- but this effect would likely come later and requires further study to confirm, the team wrote.

Vaccinating transplant patients

MEDICINE

A small study offers the first hint that an extra dose of COVID-19 vaccines just might give some organ transplant recipients a needed boost in protection. Even as most vaccinated people celebrate a return to near normalcy, millions who take immune-suppressing medicines because of transplants, cancer or other disorders remain in limbo — uncertain how protected they really are. It's simply harder for vaccines to rev up a weak immune system. Monday's study tracked just 30 transplant patients but it's an important step toward learning if booster doses could help. It didn't help everybody. But of the 24 patients who appeared to have no protection after the routine two vaccinations, eight of them — a third — developed some virus-fighting antibodies after an extra shot, researchers from Johns Hopkins University reported in Annals of Internal Medicine. And six others who'd had only minimal antibodies all got a big boost from the third dose.

SWAG ON A SKATEBOARD

Meet the Bengalureans who played a role in the making of Netflix's latest release Skater Girl

SIMRAN AHUJA

NETFLIX movie Skater Girl may have been shot in a village in Rajasthan, but the skateboarding feature shares a close connection with Bengaluru. A Bengaluru-based skateboarder coached the protagonist Prerna (played by debutante Rachel Saanchita Gupta), a teenager who struggles to pursue her passion for skateboarding. The skatepark Prerna and her friends practise in, was built by two Bengaluru-based ventures - 100 Ramps Skatepark Construction Company and Holystoked Collective. Prominent names from the city's thriving skateboarding scene also play cameo roles as themselves.

Kevin Anish Christopher, a Kerala-born and Bengaluru-bred skateboarder, was first approached for the construction of the skatepark in Rajasthan in 2018. When director Manjari Makijany and producers Vinati Makijany and Emmanuel Pappas learned that 28-year-old Christopher is also a skateboarding coach, they asked him to teach the protagonists and 100+ kids from around the village. He was also one of the skate camera operators for the film.

Like her character Prerna, Rachel hadn't ever stepped on a board. The first lesson, of course, was learning how to fall. "You ought to fall while skateboarding and the true challenge is to get back up and try again. It's important to recognise where one falters while attempting a trick and keeping at it is key," says Christopher, who formed WeSkateCo to empower children through sports.

Building the skatepark during the monsoon was another challenge, says Abhishek, one of the founders of Holystoked Collective and a partner at 100 Ramps, who designed the film's skatepark.

"We were looking forward to a theatrical release but that was not possible due to the pandemic. None the less, it was great to see the film and the skatepark on Netflix," says Abhishek. When Holystoked was founded in 2010, Abhishek knew all the skaters in India given that only so few existed. Today, that number lies in thousands, with communities existing in smaller cities like Varanasi, Kovalam and Kannur. "But the perception of those who aren't familiar with skateboarding is the same. Maybe this film can help change that," he adds.

The film also features Bengalurean skaters in cameo roles, where they play themselves. Abhishek, plays a skateboarder and construction crew mate, whereas Darius Cyrus Bharucha, founder of 100 Ramps, does the same, while also judging the fictional competition.

Two others, 17-year-old Mahin Ivan Tandon, who took part in the International Skateboarding Open in 2019, and 27-year-old Atita Verghese, one of the first Indian female skateboarders, also appear in cameos. Verghese recalls that she knew only two other girls who, like her, were learning to skateboard in 2012. Now, the number is definitely more heartening, but still a huge gender gap still exists in the sport. "But I do hope this film can change that. And like Prerna, maybe more girls can find the inspiration to hop on board too," she says.

ALL ABOARD!

Desert Dolphin Skatepark still exists for the kids of Khempur village

Built in 45 days by a team led by 100 Ramps

On Day 1 of construction, a bull had to chased away from the construction site

> It was just rural land, grass and bushes, with a cow grazing area nearby. There was also no electricity, no water, nothing. But despite challenges being aplenty, I liked the idea of building this park for a community building project

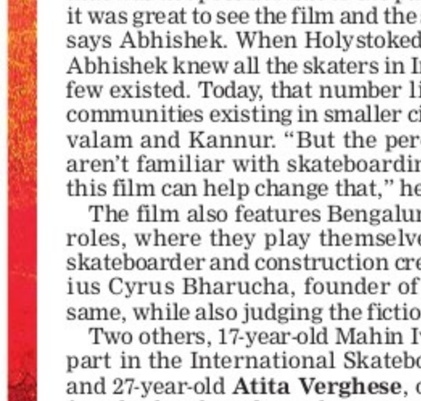
Wedding bling has given way to the classic looks of old as couples look to the past for inspiration for the big day

Vow-ing with vintage



Couples planning to tie the knot are choosing decor that as a touch of the traditional for their big day

SHREYA VERONICA

IT is not just the clothes, rituals and ceremonies, brides and grooms in the city want a downright traditional, old school wedding decor too. Right from the nadaswarams, the fragrance of camphor, marigold garlands to meals served on banana leaves, they want their big day to reek of rustic elegance.

According to wedding planners, gone are the days of flamboyant and tacky theme weddings such as a glamorous 'Bollywood' or 'Shimmer and Bling'. Couples want to keep it simple and traditional.

Samuel Ebenezer Pillai, the owner of Wedding Stories, has been working on traditional theme weddings for quite some time now. "Every client wants to go traditional. They want coconut leaves, coconut/banana matting, marigold and rose flowers. Even the use of ragi and brass items such as gangalam, bindelu and deepanthalu for the Mangalasananam and Pellikuthuru ceremonies have increased," he says.

Vamshi Ganagona, another wedding planner, has been organising eco-friendly weddings, in which he ends up using the most traditional items in the decor. "The preference here is given to colours such as white, green and yellow, as these are eco-friendly. I do not use plastic at all in my decor and fibre has become outdated. In the olden days, people used to tie coconut leaves and hang them outside their houses. Today, our clients want this," he says.

Tradition is making its way back into weddings. For example, clients want to hand-pound turmeric for the haldi ceremony, and they want pure organic turmeric, Vamshi says.

Kenny Salvadi, who plans Christian weddings, says most of his clients prefer vintage themes. "Just before the second lockdown, we got an order for a bridal shower and they wanted a village theme. Most of them either want a vintage theme or an old, classic foreign look. In such projects, we need minimal décor to make the church look classy. The colours used in Christian weddings are mostly peach and off-white. When it comes to the reception, they want it Nawabi."

Fan-boying over football

It is somewhat subdued, but the excitement that only the beautiful game can cause, has Bengalurean fans in its thrall

SANATH PRASAD

THE uninhibited roars of cheer when a favourite football team or player makes a good move are more subdued these days, because of the ever-present anxiety from Covid-19. Still, Bengaluru's football fans are glued to their screens, cheering their favourite teams on through the UEFA EURO 2020 and COPA America 2021, albeit in lower volume.

Syed Waseem, an ardent fan who plays for city-based football group FairPlay, says, "Earlier, the team used to enjoy watching knockout matches and tournaments together at a friend's house. Due to the pandemic and the travel restrictions, we are not in any celebratory mode."

Naturally, when the physical is no longer possible, the virtual takes over - where possible of course. The 60 members of the Republic of FairPlay group on WhatsApp, have animated discussions about and analyse every match of the UEFA 2020. "The official Instagram handle of FairPlay posts updates on fixtures, players and other related news to keep fans engaged. We have intra-group discussions and also note takeaway points from the game," Waseem says.

Image for representation

Two days ago, football fans watched in horror as Danish footballer Christian Eriksen collapsed during a match against Finland. Along with thousands of people across the globe, members of Bengaluru Football Supporter's Club Association, an amalgamation of multiple accredited clubs of Bengaluru, wished Eriksen a speedy recovery on social media.

Manoj Lad, secretary of Manchester United Supporters Club Bangalore, says, "Eriksen's episode was painful for football fans. As fans it's our responsibility to send our best wishes and stand in solidarity with the player. We had to request many of our fellow members to take down posts showing the on-field first aid treatment given to the player."

Watching matches with intense concentration isn't just about fan-boying. A lot of fan clubs watch to learn. For Bangalore Kicker's FC, Monday's match between Spain and Sweden - which ended in a draw - was the subject of much debate. Shivakumar Varadaraj, the group's coordinator, says, "Yesterday's match was almost equal to Sweden's victory. Their defence against Spain was really strong. Sweden's positioning and defending strategy is a case study that we will have to adopt."

The sheer skill on display during international matches makes its way from the hearts of fans to their minds, and turns into a question: How do we nurture talent in our own backyard?

Prashanth Murthy, a former performance analyst for the Indian football team, and a member of Student Union F.C., compares the football ecosystem in India to Europe. "The under-22 players in Europe are rising. The football ecosystem there allows them to scout many young faces. The same is not true here in India. It is important to ponder over this and encourage more young talents to surface," he says.

FIT BIT

VAJRA KAPOTASANA

(DOVE POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'vajra' means thunderbolt or diamond, 'kapota' means dove and 'asana' means pose. This is an advanced back bend. It improves lung function, helps with weight loss — especially from the back and the hips — and stretches the spine. Spiritually, it opens the Anahata (heart) Chakra, which helps the yogi deepen their feelings of love, openness and self-acceptance. It also links to a deeper, more contemplative meditation session. It helps deepen the yogi's sense of harmony. It is an extremely effective hip opener and is more beneficial for women who want to become pregnant as it realigns the uterus.

STEPS

- Sit in Vajrasana (Thunderbolt Pose), kneeling down on the yoga mat with your back straight.
- Place your hands on the floor behind you, fingers facing inward.
- Place your elbows on the floor behind you. Make sure that your whole lower arm is on the floor.
- Bend back with the help of your hands.
- Lift your thighs up and forward and push your hands toward your feet and try to straighten your arms.
- Beginners can try to be in this position for 30 to 60 seconds or till their comfort.
- Slowly get back to the starting position, keep your leg straight and take a deep breath and relax.
- Keep both the hands alongside your body.
- Initially when you do this pose, you will feel some pain in your legs, spine, abdomen, shoulder, thigh, and arms, but as you practice more you can do this easily.

BENEFITS

- Helps improve digestion and the function of the digestive system.
- Helps prevent constipation.
- Strengthens and improves elasticity of the arms, shoulders, hands, wrists and legs, and increases blood flow here.
- Prevents various types of cardiovascular diseases.
- Creates pressure on the kidneys and livers, stimulating them.
- Improves blood circulation, giving cells vital nutrition and repairing dead skin cells.

LIMITATIONS

- Considered best to practise early in the morning.
- You can practise in the evening as well. But keep a 3-5 hours gap between your practice and meal.
- In case of a herniated disc or an injury in the knee, lower back, neck, ankles or arms, avoid this.

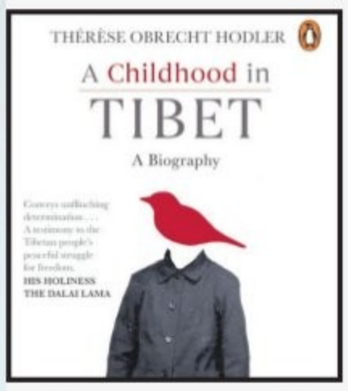
'THE FATE OF TIBET THEN CHANGED FOREVER'

TURNING PAGES

On 17 March 1959, the twenty-four-year-old Dalai Lama escaped Lhasa disguised as a soldier as night falls. Undetected, with a few loyal companions, he marched past the huge crowd of Tibetans that gathered to protect their leader with their lives. The fate of Tibet then changed forever. A week earlier, on 10 March, the Chinese military commander invited His Holiness the Dalai Lama to the army headquarters, but without his bodyguards. The Tibetan uprising broke out. The fear that their leader could fall into the hands of the occupying People's Liberation Army was unbearable for the Tibetans. They erected barricades in the narrow streets of Lhasa while the PLA positions artillery in the city. Leaflets called for resistance against the Chinese invaders. Rumours of treason and kidnapping made the rounds. Nomads passing through Lhasa whispered of tens of thousands of Chinese soldiers being in position at the boundaries of the city.

In his summer residence, the Norbulingka, the Dalai Lama discussed the critical situation with his advisors. If he stays, there will be violence.

Thérèse Obrecht Hodler



If he leaves, there will be violence as well. Two days later, on 19 March, when the word of the Dalai Lama's escape became public in Lhasa, street fighting between Tibetans and Chinese soldiers broke out. Poorly armed Tibetans faced overpowering Chinese military might. The PLA stationed in Lhasa since 1951, brutally crushed the uprising. 'The Tibetan problems must be solved by force', telegraphed Chairman Mao Zedong. Tens of thousands of Tbetans died in the following days in hand-to-hand battles and under artillery fire. Lhasa's three main monasteries, Sera, Ganden and Drepung, were destroyed, thousands of monks were arrested or executed, their monasteries destroyed and irreplaceable Buddhist scriptures burnt. After a few days, the Tibetan resistance was shattered.

Exhausted, the Dalai Lama and his companions arrived in India on 31 March. The adventurous escape, often at night, on foot or on horseback, in a small yak-leather boat across the Kyi Chu River (Brahmaputra) and in a snow flurry over the Sabo-La Pass, turned out to be successful. Still on Tibetan soil, the Dalai Lama revoked the infamous '17-Point Agreement' of 1951, which Tibetan officials were forced to sign by the People's Republic of China. The Indian prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, allocated available land to the Tibetans in the foothills of the Himalayas. The Dalai Lama was permitted-as the spiritual, but not political head-to lead a Central Tibetan Administration in Dharamsala, but (officially) not a government in exile. Over the next few years, tens of thousands of Tibetans followed the Dalai Lama into exile and continued to regard him as their political leader as well.

In the midst of these tragic events, little Tenzin Dolma, called Tendöl, was born in Lhasa under dramatic circumstances as the last child of the Namseling family. Choekyi was in labour when Chinese armed officers came to arrest Tendöl's mother, the wife of Tibet's secretary of state for finance. They lifted the blanket, saw blood and left the mother alone at the time. But, shortly after Tendöl's birth, a friend assisting Choekyi as midwife was arrested in place of the mother.

"I wanted to tell them that I never knew that people like Dante existed in the world, people who looked at the stars, and knew the mysteries of water, and knew enough to know that birds belonged to the heavens and weren't meant to be shot down from their graceful flights by mean and stupid boys. I wanted to tell them that he had changed my life and that I would never be the same, not ever."

– Excerpt from the book, Aristotle and Dante Discover the Secrets of the Universe

Through the universe's secrets

Poet and novelist Benjamin Alire Sáenz opened the doors to the beautiful world of Texas teens Ari and Dante around nine years ago

KRISHNA P S

It was that time again in fifteen-year-old Ari's life - summer. It comes with many changes. For one, he can always wear his favourite T-shirt, a birthday gift from his father, though it is torn. Aristotle and Dante Discover The Secrets of the Universe is a book that no one can hate, for the sheer positivity between its lines.

In the hands of writer Benjamin Alire Sáenz, the two teenage boys from El Paso, Texas, come alive in the sweltering Texas summer. It is also simultaneously a love story with roots of deep friendship and family, and a journey to one's own culture, body and sexuality. In rhythmic poetic prose, Alire Sáenz shows us the becoming of two sweet teenagers.

Dante is a dreamer, is sensitive. He loves and breathes poems. Ari is riddled with self-doubt and has a hard time articulating his words. Their families are also different. Dante comes from a loving family while Ari's family prefers to hide everything under the rug. Ari's brother is in jail, and he still doesn't know why. His father suffers from PTSD after returning from the Vietnam War, another thing they never talk about.

Benjamin Alire Sáenz

They become friends, have fights, finds love and discover the secrets of the universe. It wasn't easy for two Mexican boys to find love in Texas. It was difficult for Alire Sáenz, the poet and novelist, to let go of these two characters too. After nine years, he has announced the sequel to his seminal novel. The book, Aristotle and Dante Dive into the Waters of the World will release this fall.

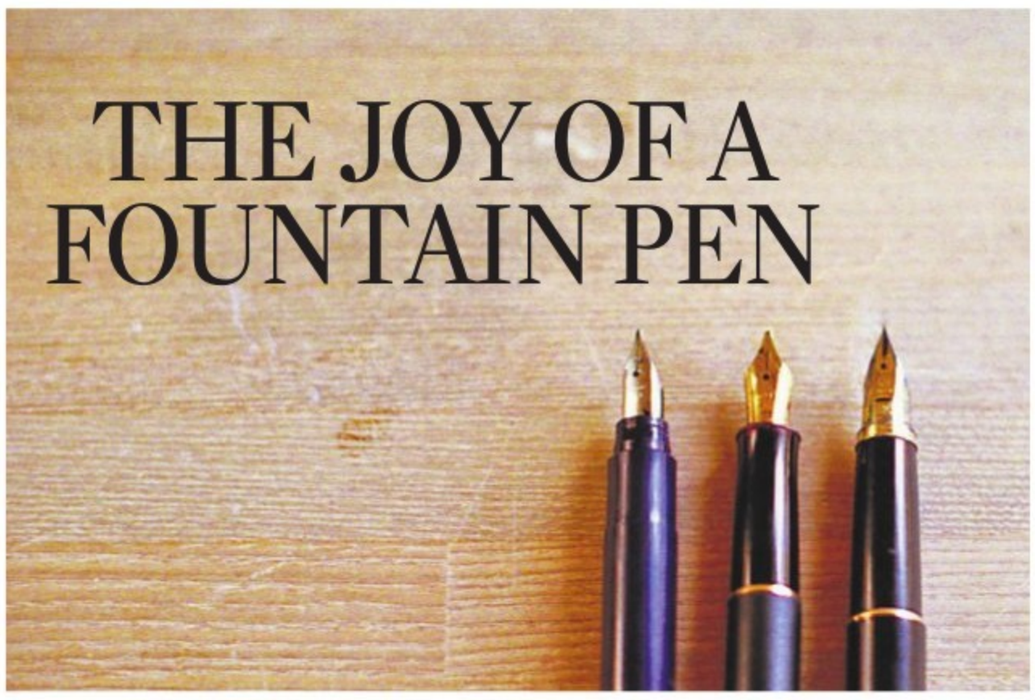
THE JOY OF A FOUNTAIN PEN



Our earliest introduction to writing was with the humble pencil - Natraj for boys and Apsara Flora for girls. But pencils needed to be accompanied with sharpeners and erasers. The crueller teachers in my school would place the pencil in between our fingers and squeeze our hands, resulting in a quick shift to pencils with smooth, rounded edges. The pencil also caused in me a constant anxiety of 'Is it sharp enough?', often coming in the way of my imbibing important concepts like 'A for apple'. Since I sharpened my pencils until they resembled spears in the Mahabharata, my pencils often shrunk at the pace of the Zimbabwean dollar.

The introduction of pens therefore, was a paradigm shift. Our school had strange rules around pens – we were only allowed to use fountain pens, and never allowed to share our pens with others. We were told that using a fountain pen improves handwriting, and inculcates discipline and responsibility. I side with the latter reasoning, for filling your fountain pen was akin to walking to a well to fill vessels of water.

Fountain pens came with unique problems. The constant leaks resulted in the blue patch of shame appearing on one's shirt pockets during 'assembly'. Our first introduction to Bluetooth was having ink on our teeth. The leaks would result in a 'c' looking like an 'e'; and if your pen was old, the 'e' could drip down further to become a 'g'. Then there was the shady business of underlining important concepts in red to score a few grace marks for neatness. But if you only had one pen, the red and blue inks would mix to form a purple, resulting in further thrashing. The ink pens and ink pots were stored in the bag, which then resulted in a large blue splotch right in the middle of Mickey Mouse's face. With all the leaking, I often wonder why they were called fountain pens and not faucet pens.

As life went on, fountain pens were replaced by ball-point pens. The humble fountain pens struggled to compete with ball-point pens impressively named 'Hero Pen' and 'Pilot Pen'. Ball-point pens required no manual refilling - simply fling the refill till it finds its way to a turtle's dinner. The process of writing itself became a rarity, until I found myself as a writer and stand-up comedian years later. I like writing my ideas out on paper first, and the process of picking the ideal pen is a constant torment. Believe me when I say that I spend more time on stationery sites than dating apps.

Imagine my surprise then, when I stumbled upon fountain pens in the stationery section, tucked away behind the Hulks and the Spidermen. While smartphones and Snapchat have transformed our lives, fountain pens have gone through a quiet transformation of their own. They now come with cartridges. So now when you run out of ink, instead of a lowly plumber, you feel like Rambo. The nibs have also gotten smoother. A few days with the fountain pen made me discover something else that was unique about fountain pens. Upon consistent use, the nib smoothens out according to your handwriting and grip - until the pen seems to be gliding over the paper magically.

The next time you're in the supermarket, pick a fountain pen. I'm no historian, but I assume the quote 'Pen is mightier than sword' was coined along with the invention of the fountain pen. I know not if my pen is mightier than a sword, but it is certainly a smooth, single-edged sword.

Scripting a horror film

Anchor-actor-director Sheetal Shetty, who is making her debut with romantic thriller Window Seat, tells CE that she is touching upon 'occult practices'

Sheetal Shetty

A SHARADHAA

Sheetal Shetty is waiting for theatres to reopen for the release of her debut directorial, Window Seat. Even so, the anchor-actor-turned-director is getting ready for her second venture, and this time she is planning to helm a horror film. "The lockdown brought me to my hometown, the interiors of Udupi. So the scriptwriting is happening in the midst of greenery," she says.

Interestingly, Sheetal, who is penning a horror novel, has considered touching upon 'occult practices'. With the upcoming director debuting with a romantic thriller, she tells us her idea behind it. "In my opinion, after 6-5=2, I haven't seen a good subject coming in Kannada. I wanted to create something that the audience would connect with, and bring them to theatres. A film with elements of thrill and horror have become very rare in Sandalwood, and I felt there is space for me, and I want to try my hands at it," she says.

Sheetal is ready with Window Seat, and she is curiously waiting to present the film to viewers. Bankrolled by Vikrant Rona producer, Manjunath Gowda, the film stars Nirup Bhandari, Sanjana Anand and Amrutha Iyengar in the lead. The product has come out well, and I am eagerly waiting to present it to the audience," says Sheetal, adding, "Earlier this year, we waited for big-star films to release, and had even fixed April 9 as the release date. But everything got pushed due to the pandemic, including Window Seat," she says.

Ask the director, whether she planned to take her film the OTT route? "It is the producer's call," says Sheetal, adding, "The kind of treatment given to the film's music, sound design or visuals, is something that has to be enjoyed on the silver screen. The producer watched the film and felt it would better suit a theatre release."

The film, directed by Rohit Padaki and starring Dhananjay in the lead, is working towards wrapping the remaining 10 days of shoot

A SHARADHAA

Even as lockdown restrictions have just started easing in the city and state, the entertainment industry is keenly waiting to get permission to resume shooting. However, a few filmmakers are said to have taken their first steps towards resuming post-production activities. The makers of Rathnan Prapancha, directed by Rohit Padaki, are in the dubbing studio, says Yogi G Raj, who is jointly producing the film with Karthik Gowda under the banner KRG Studios. "Actor Dhananjay, who is back in Bengaluru, has started dubbing his portions, and later we will have senior actor Umashree and other artistes recording their portions," he says.

Rathnan Prapancha is currently in the last leg of shooting, and the team -- which is left with just 10 days of shooting -- is working towards completing the remaining portions. The production house is hoping to get permission to shoot in Bengaluru, otherwise, plans are to wrap the final portions in Hyderabad. However, a call is yet to be taken. This is KRG Studios' first venture, for which they began shooting in November 2020. The story revolves around middle-class values. Dhananjay plays the role of Ratnakara, an insurance agent, and senior actor Umashree plays his mother in the film. It features Reba Monica John as the female lead. 'Sherni changed how I view wildlife'

We were all being true to what we were doing. It's a very realistic approach. It's an interesting combination because he is also great with humour."

– Vidya Balan, actress

Vidya Balan discusses her new film, Sherni, in which she plays a female forest officer in Central India

SHILAJIT MITRA

Script choice is now second nature to Vidya Balan. Even when she errs—Shaadi Ke Side Effects, Kahaani 2—the films turn out to be hard, fascinating choices. Her latest seems almost destined to succeed: a team-up with Amit Masurkar, the director of Newton (2017), and a film about a female forest officer in Madhya Pradesh. Premiering on Amazon Prime Video, Sherni is a Vidya vehicle all through—they didn't even change her name. "My character's name is Vidya Vincent," Vidya shares about her new venture. "She is introverted and reserved. She is not the kind to fight back, which makes her task as a forest officer all the more challenging."

Playing a character like that was an 'eye-opener' for Vidya. It got her in touch with a part of the environment she wasn't entirely aware of. "As a performer, to get deep into the skin of Vincent, I had to undertake an approach of acting and speaking through my expressions and silences."

Here, she praises Amit's 'unusual, realistic' approach to character-building. Before Newton, the director had helmed Sulemani Keeda (2013), a comedy about two screenwriter friends in Mumbai. Vidya had worked with Amit on several ads and admired Newton.

On Sherni, Amit "would constantly be checking both the script and performance to make sure that it feels real," Vidya says. "We were all being true to what we were doing. It's a very realistic approach. It's an interesting combination because he is also great with humour."

On the trail of a man-eating tigress, Vidya's character encounters many adversaries. Predictably, most of them are human. The trailer shows her fending off sexist barbs while striving for a 'balance' in the human-animal conflict. Working on the film, Vidya came to recognise the intricacies of wildlife and conservation. "Sherni mirrors the man vs wild conflict, and presents a deeper insight," she says. "Both humans and animals are equally dependent on each other, and we need to recognise, appreciate and strengthen that."

She adds, "Honestly, before this film I didn't think like that, and for me, this is a huge departure from the way I feel about the animal world or wildlife. It educated me on the impact that our activities have on wildlife and made me realise that striking a balance is absolutely necessary and the need of the hour."

Ideation is one thing, but shooting, quite another. The film had gone on floors in March last year. After the first lockdown, production was halted and resumed again in October. In addition to safety protocols, the dense jungles demanded intense caution. Vidya found it challenging at first but was also thrilled for the opportunity.

"I have been on quite a few safaris on vacations mostly, and just the thought of being around the crawlies would make me uncomfortable. But during 'Sherni' in the jungles of Madhya Pradesh, I stayed in a tent during the first schedule and that was an amazing experience. I went on long walks in the forest. We were shooting in summertime; so, it wasn't very green, and I felt safe walking on my own." This is Vidya's second straight-to-digital release in the pandemic. Her last film, Shakuntala Devi, was also premiered on Amazon Prime Video.

"Having a release in these times is nothing short of a blessing; I've had two of them already," Vidya says. "Sherni's story has universal appeal and it felt prudent to release it on a digital platform. You can experience the jungle from the comfort of your home. I think this is the best possible outcome under the circumstances."
